PLANTING TOO MUCH TOBACCO

Farmers Reports To Government Indicate Over 10 Per Cent Increase

An item of significance to farmers of North Carolina is contained in the recent government report of intentions to plant by some 50,000 farmers of this and other States, which shows that the acreage to flue-cured tobacco will likely be increased over 10 per cent this season.

"The governmental agencies are not allowed to collect information as to the intentions of farmers to plant cotton, and we have no accurate means of knowing whether the acreage will be expanded, yet we do know that tobacco will be increased by 10.5 per cent, and this will likely cause a serious situation this fall," says I. O. Schaub, dean of the school of agriculture at State College. "Indications from private sources show that the cotton acreage will also be slightly increased, but when we add an increased acreage of 10 per cent to that of from 15 to 20 per cent for last year with tobacco, we shall likely suffer from low prices this fall. Cigarette consumption is increasing by about 9 per cent each year, but the burley tobacco growers indicate that they will also increase their acreage by 34 per cent. Since burley is also used in cigarette manufacture, these two increases will certainly give an excessive crop."

In a study of the intentions-to-plant report, Dean Schaub finds that the corn acreage will be increased slightly in North Carolina. Hay will remain as for last year, when farmers made a good increase, and peanuts will be increased by 8 per cent in this State and 12 per cent as an average for the peanut belt. Sweet potatoes will be increased in acreage by 5 per cent, and Irish potatoes by 12 per cent. Only average prices will probably be secured with these two crops. Mr. Schaub states that the average increase for all the main crops, except cotton, will be 3 per cent larger than the acreage harvested in 1927.

In general, the intentions-to-plant report follows the outlook for farm crops in 1928, as issued by the college during February.

In the history of Margolis Bros.' business the biggest two days' sales on ladies' ready to wear were reached last Friday and Saturday. Hundreds of dresses and coats were sold to the best-dressed women in Martin, Bertie, Washington, and Beaufort Counties. They came—bought—and sent their friends to buy. There is a reason—visit the store of Margolis Bros., and you will see why so many dresses and other furnishings are sold. Buy your Easter outfit here and save the difference.—Adv.

Wild Cat

Most people have seen a wild cat, but those who haven't should come out to our mill and see a real wild cat; and if they think he isn't wild, just try to stroke his back. Now, the cat is very much different from us. We are not wild; we try our best to give honest humble service to any one wanting lumber for building purposes. If you are not buying from us, it's time you are booking your order.
