SEPTIC TANK IS NEEDED ALONG WITH WATER

Provides Most Inexpensive System of Sewage Disposal for Farm

The farm home equipped with that vital necessity, running water, also needs an inexpensive system of sewage disposal. Such a system is offered in the ordinary septic tank.

"Statistics gathered during the war showed that certain diseases are more prevalent in the country than in the city, despite the time-honored statements about healthy country life," says David S. Weaver, agricultural engineer at State College. "These diseases usually fall under those classified as coming from impure water, which is intimately connected with sewage disposal. But aside from this, we can not develop a refined cultured citizenship in communities where sanitary precautions are ignored."

For those farms having running water in the home, by far the best provision for the disposal of the sewage is the septic tank, states Mr. Weaver. The installation of a complete system is not expensive. Ordinary labor on the farm may be used in construction and plans for building may be secured free of charge from the agricultural engineering office.

Mr. Weaver and his associates have prepared a short mimeograph circular which gives drawings and descriptions of simple septic tanks. The circular describes where such a tank may be located, the size needed, how the forms are constructed, the concrete work needed, the disposal field to be used and how to care for the tank after installation.

This circular has been prepared for distribution to farmers of North Carolina and is available on application to David S. Weaver, department of agronomy, State College, Raleigh. A postal card or letter asking for agronomy information circular 15 will bring a prompt response.

"We should like to see one of these tanks installed on each farm where there is running water in the home," says Mr. Weaver. "The tank simply provides a working place for hosts of bacteria which break up the solid matter into liquid or gas."

IS DIRECTOR OF COTTON CO-OPS

R. L. Shuford, One of States 24 Master Farmers, Is Named To Board

R. L. Shuford, one of the State's Master Farmers and Jersey breeder of national fame, is now a full-fledged member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association, according to information received from C. C. Hilton, field representative of the cotton growers' association.

Mr. Shuford, who is known in his home county as 'Bob' Shuford, was elected by the board of directors at its last regular meeting to fill the unexpired term of M. S. Rudisill, of Crouse, N. C., who resigned on account of the condition of his health.

In addition to being a cotton farmer, he is an outstanding dairyman. Mr. Shuford qualified as one of the State's 24 master farmers who were awarded medals and certificates of merit in December by the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and the Progressive Farmer. Mr. Shuford is the owner of Oakwood D's Fox, the first medal of merit bull developed in the South, and also of Red Lady, known as the Queen of the South, with a record of 19,608 pounds of milk and 1,028 pounds of butter fat. Red Lady attracted more attention at the National Dairy Show at Memphis, Tenn., last year than any other individual animal.

In partnership with his family, Mr. Shuford operates a 500-acre farm devoted to the growing of crops, raising of pure bred Jersey cattle and the production of dairy products.

OAKLAND HOST TO THE PUBLIC

Company Will Hold Open House on April 17, 18 and 19

Pontiac, Mich., April 9.—The unusual spectacle of a brilliantly lighted group of automobile factories holding open house to the public—operating late into the night while thousands of visitors inspect the wonders of ultra-modern manufacturing methods, will be staged here April 17, 18, and 19 by the Oakland Motor Car Company.

The occasion will be the formal observance of the completion of the latest unit to the factories, a $3,000,000 assembly and shipping building for the Oakland All-American Six. Both the Pontiac Six and the Oakland Six factories will be open during the celebration, the spacious aisles and up-to-date machinery equipment rendering it possible for the visitors to pass thru the buildings without interrupting the high speed production. Guides and placards will explain every important factory operation. During the three open-house nights the plants will operate until 10 p. m.

After inspecting the plants, the devoted to dancing. Music is to be furnished by a 15-piece orchestra. Guests will find themselves in the immense new shipping building, where 40,000 square feet of floor space will be sides concert numbers by the Oakland Motor Car Company band. A unique feature will be the refreshment production line, where sandwiches, ice cream and coffee will be served with all the speed and efficiency of the company's automobile production lines.

Boy Scouts and special illuminated street signs throughout the city will guide out-of-town visitors to a big flood-lighted parking lot near the factory entrance. Babies may be checked at the door and taken care of during the evening by white-clad nurses. The oldest Oakland and the latest products of the company will be displayed near the dance floor.

Granville Farmers Sell 10 Cars Sweet Potatoes

Ten cars of cured sweet potatoes, amounting in value to about $6,000, have been sold for farmers of the Creedmoor section of Granville County by the farm agent, J. H. Blackwell, this year.

Tom Tarheel says he never would have sold his sweet potatoes this spring if the county agent had not found a market for them.
