Judge Bailey and Solicitor Peel when their court called 14 cases and tried 8 of them last Tuesday. Three cases, charging abandonment, were... called, and two charging the defendants with driving an automobile under the in-finence of liquor were on the docket for trial. A very unusual case, that of Charlie Mack Jones and having to o with derailing a train, was up for trial.

In the case charging Elijah Manwith abandonment, capiac was d and the case was continued.

Charlie Mack Jones admitted he derailed a box car on the Atlantic Coast Line tracks, but stated that he did it without malice. Mr. Dickey pointed out that one must assume the full functions of citizenship. The preacher continued: "One should live where his busines is, and should spend his money where he makes it and with the people with whom he makes his living. "Citizenship is one of man's first obligations. He should know all the good points that his community has to offer and he must know these things in order to be able to promot the interests about him. It is also essential that a good citizen know the weak points in his community if he is to help better or improve them. No good citizen is satisfied because he is always seeking opportunities to make his community better." Speaking personally of Williams-ton, the speaker frankly stated that he did not know many reasons why we should be satisfied. He said, "We have a fine type of men, women and young geople. We have good stores, good business and professional men, but we have very little in the way of public institutions, few paved streets except those built by the State, no raved sidewalks, no public library and no play grounds." Mr. Dickey concluded by saying,

"To be a good citizen one must have faith in his community and in his own ability to go forward with the work that makes the community a better place in which to live."
