

HOUSE DEBATES SCHOOL ISSUE

Raleigh, Mar. 15.—At a late hour last night the House had not voted on the conference report on the much discussed school bill, the conferees having accepted the Senate equalizing fund of $6,500,000 with the method of distribution changed.

Sentiment appeared almost evenly divided. Presenting the conference report, Mr. MacLean said the committee stayed in session for three hours and decided on only one partial change.

He said Judge Winston and Senator Blue differed. The Judge, seeking to boost the equalizing fund and Senator Blue saying it couldn't be done as already there was danger of a deficit.

The question arose over whether the $300,000 emergency fund set up in the Hancock bill would not reduce the $5,250,000 six-months term aid fund too much, so the committee agreed to cut it to $200,000, one hundred thousand to be taken from the six-months fund, leaving it at $5,150,000 a year, and one hundred thousand from the special district aid fund, leaving it $1,150,000 a year.

The report was signed by Senators Blue and Higgins and Representatives MacLean and Harris. Judge Winston, the other member, did not sign the report and moved that the House not accept it.

He said the question as to whether the House committee had acted within its province, contending that the committee had reduced the emergency fund, a matter not in dispute, and moved rejection of the report. Mr. MacLean explained that the total aid sum had not been cut, $6,500,000, and the tax rate had not been changed.

Speaking on the report, Judge Winston said he did not encounter the most congenial atmosphere in the conference room and that little was brought up on the matter the committee had been sent to confer on.

The Judge stated that if stillness met his motion to go back to the Hancock bill, and then a proposal to add $50,000 failed to obtain a second, but when the motion was made to reduce there were plenty of seconds.

Twenty-Four Prisoners Are Now in County Jail

"A few more prisoners will crowd our jail," Deputy Sheriff Grimes stated this morning when he checked the county hotel register and found that 24 guests were stopping there. Sixteen of the number are awaiting trial before Judge Small next week, while the remaining eight are serving sentences of various length. Five of the prisoners are white.

Professor L. H. Davis has been confined to his bed several days this week with a slight attack of influenza. He is much better today and is expected out within a short while.
