self and the statesman who wants to give himself to his people.

The people are also frequently unfair to the politician; they promise to support him to make him feel good, and then vote against him.

We need a training school for our children in which they might be taught principles of government rather than politics.

The End Brings Relief

Regardless of whether all of our friends won in the primary or not last Saturday, we all rejoice that it is all over. It is probably true that in most respects the campaign was conducted upon an ethical basis; yet, in a few instances, there were some shady things reported. Many falsehoods have been spread purposely and some of the untrue statements were peddled around by people who knew they were false. Others told the falsehoods in good faith. Various factions are said to have attacked opposing ones for advancing flaws and falsehoods; turning in the next breath to stoop to such practices themselves. Unfortunately, the broad freedom given under our American electoral system makes it so easy to stray from the straight path that many follow an irregular course. Our ballot is considered our most sacred governmental right; yet, we treat it very lightly at times.

When our schools teach our boys and girls more of the importance and sacredness of government, the less taxes we will have to pay.

Professional and personally interested politicians largely rule an ignorant electorate. An intelligent electorate calls its leaders. Teach the children how to preserve their liberty.

The Australian Ballot in Effect

The Australian Ballot Law met with much favor throughout the State Saturday when the voters, for the first time, had the privilege as well as the pleasure of marking their ballots without someone standing and looking over their shoulders.

There were more than three thousand votes cast in this county last Saturday. Under the old system, the number would probably have been much larger in certain instances.

The new law works against the professional politician who formerly had the power to suggest even up to the ballot box. It is unfair to say that the results last Saturday would have been different under the old system, but without the change it would have been possible for entirely different results.

There has been a strong demand during the past years for a better election law limiting fraud. Up until the last legislature the measure had been defeated by the professional politicians. Governor Gardner gave the measure his full support and after a hard struggle, the Australian system was introduced. For his work, Mr. Gardner deserves the thanks of the law-abiding people of the State.

There may still be objections and opportunities for fraud in voting, but everyone admits that the new law advances better voting methods and fairness.

and the lands of J. G. Staton on the West, and being the same land conveyed to the said W. R. Nicholson by J. L. Barnhill and J. L. Wynn and wives, by deed dated September 29, 1919, and of record in Martin County Public Registry in Book D-2, page 119.

The terms of sale are as follows: One-third cash and remainder payable in three equal annual installments with 6 per cent interest.

All bids will be received subject to rejection or confirmation by the Clerk of said Superior Court and no bid will be accepted or reported unless its maker shall deposit with said Clerk at the close of the bidding the sum of one hundred and fifty ($150.00) dollars as a forfeit and guaranty of compliance with his bid, the same to be credited on his bid when accepted.

Notice is now given that said lands will be resold at the same place and upon the same terms at 2 o'clock P. M. of the same day unless said deposit is sooner made.

Every deposit not forfeited or accepted will be promptly returned to the maker.

This the 19th day of May, 1930.

B. A. CRITCHER, Commissioner.

A Word of Appreciation

I desire to thank those who supported my candidacy for Judge of Recorder's Court in the Democratic Primary last Saturday.

The Primary is the place where all differences are settled and I congratulate all the victors and they are all my candidates now. For thirty years I have followed the banner of democracy in victory and in defeat and am now ever ready to obey the call of duty and fight its battles.

This great party may be defeated but it can never be destroyed because it rests on principles that are elemental and eternal. To us has been entrusted the keeping of the covenant of freedom and equal rights created by the genius of Thomas Jefferson, the greatest philosopher and statesman this country has ever produced.

The task now confronting us in the approaching campaign is to restore economy in government, to preserve the liberties of the people, to safeguard and re-establish the necessity and responsibility of local self-government.

These are the sacred jewels of our heritage, the golden candlesticks and vessels placed in a charter of liberties. We must fight the good fight and keep the faith.

I have confidence in the ultimate judgment of the American people. They are now conscious of the false prophecies and betrayals of the unfaithful Republican leaders.

Here is hoping for a glorious democratic victory in county, state and nation on the ideas of next November.

A Little Girl's Prayer

Daddy, if you know we're hungry,
 Know that we are very poor,
 It must break your heart in Heaven
 'Cause you never did insure.
 Mamma wonders why you didn't
 Save the dimes you threw away;
 But you felt too strong and healthy
 For insurance, people say.

You were taken without warning,
 Leaving us to fight alone;
 You'd have taken out insurance,
 Daddy, if you'd only known.
 'Twasn't that you didn't love us,
 I recall how dear you were;
 But your little girl must suffer,
 'Cause you failed to save for her.

Mamma just can't make the living,
 She is wearing out, she says.
 I shall have to miss some schooling
 For the sake of daily bread.
 When she's gone I guess they'll take me
 To a place of charity,
 To be fed and clothed, but, Daddy,
 It can never be home to me.

Mary's daddy left insurance,
 And their home will still be theirs.
 They're not hungry, and sometimes Mary
 Gives me cast-off clothes to wear.
 They don't have to take in sewing,
 Mary's mamma doesn't cry,
 For her Daddy left insurance,
 But you didn't, Daddy—Why?
 —Annie Denman.

ON LIVING AT HOME

We thought the "live-at-home" subject would become exhausted and die a natural death, but it seems to have as many lives as are attributed to the cat.

"Live-at-home" is no new idea. Our forefathers practiced it in self-defense. In Colonial days, what one did not produce at home was imported all the way from Europe and other foreign countries.

Such a state of affairs could not exist with development and progress. The idea of "live and let live" began to prevail.

George Washington owned a hundred cows, and yet he bought butter for his table. A person practicing the "live-at-home" rule and dabbling into everything is apt to become a "jack at all trades and good at none."

Every one is fitted for some one thing, and every one ought to do the thing that he or she can do best. An earnest, honest effort to succeed at some one thing is usually crowned with success.

There is so much to be done that work equally divided would provide work for every one. Let's adopt the slogan of "live and let live" and practice the golden rule of doing as you would be done by.

"Let us then be up and doing,
 With a heart for any fate;
 Still achieving, still pursuing,
 Learn to labor and to wait."

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE OF LAND

State of North Carolina, County of Martin.
 The Federal Land Bank of Columbia Plaintiff vs. W. R. Nicholson et al, and the Williamston National Farm Loan Association, defendants.
