Choose a Safe and Sane Course

The fun and pleasure producer has had his inning; for the past decade he has fattened upon the foolish desire of the masses. Now the signs of the time indicate doom for the fellow who has nothing but fun to sell to the future. The American people have swung so far to that side that they are out of balance. We still have the fun and pleasure mediums, but the purchasers are limited, and the potential customers for the worthless things of life are being reduced to a small number.

In the short period of 20 years we have developed too many automobile mechanics, too many radio announcers and too many Hollywood stars.

What can we tell the young men and young women of today to do under these conditions? We need not attempt to fool them by telling that life can be made happy without a constant line of hard work. Then why don't we come clean with them and tell them the whole truth; tell them that with all the modern civilization, their obligations are only greater than if they lived year ago. We need to school ourselves in the fact that our modern trend of life needs to be more closely guarded than would be necessary if we were in a savage state. We have so much more to lose.

We need to choose for ourselves a business or profession that can't be smashed by the craftiness of some self-designing rival. We need to study the base of our government, politically, financially, socially, morally, and spiritually. We must know the strength of its base.

No monument, regardless of its height or beauty, can stand unless it is built on a foundation that is solid and sure. We, today, have too few people who know anything about why we have grown into such a powerful nation, nor do they appreciate the fact that the soul of democracy upon which it was built is rapidly giving way to the greedy gods.

We should choose for ourselves a more sober and sane course for the immediate future than the one we have followed in the recent past.

Big Bonuses

It may not be good taste or good politics to kick big bonuses for soldiers, but the country that makes heroes of one class of its people at the expense of all the balance is doing nothing more than our less enlightened forefathers. Some congressmen seem to feel that spending the public's money to satisfy a few of their special friends is a public duty. This is one reason why war is so popular. Men know, when they serve the country for a while, they will be fed for life out of the public treasury.

Preparing for war, making war and paying for war has developed into one of our greatest drawbacks as well as one of our greatest national sins. We are all bigots because we live in a strong nation, but we are no happier or safer than those living in small, weak nations.

Losing Respect for Fighting Ring

Followers of the fighting ring are apparently losing interest and respect for prize fighting. As evidence of this, you hear many people expressing a wish that both fighters would be nearly whipped, at least badly punished in every fight. The apparent reason for the turn on the ring is that many of the fighters entering the ring do so for the money rather than to go in as fair fighters. The public likes fakes, no doubt, but it wants hard fights.

The Lindbergh Baby

It seems to us that entirely too much is being said about that Lindbergh baby.

Of course, it is a nice baby and a pretty one, but there are more than a million American mothers by whom we can prove that there are a million babies just as nice and as pretty as the Lindbergh child. Yet, the papers say more about the Lindbergh baby than they do about the whole million Jones-Smith youngsters. The action apparently proves the American to be a hero worshiper.

The little fellow has hard sledding ahead, however, for, in addition to much publicity, he occupies a precarious position as his father is a dry and his grandfather is a wet.

Mr. Morrow's Nomination

The result of the senatorial primary in New Jersey last Tuesday in which Dwight W. Morrow won the nomination by a very large majority over his two opponents is explained by numerous people in various ways.

Some writers maintain that it was his popularity that resulted in his nomination. Will Rogers says friendship was the main factor. Others say that Mr. Morrow's "wet" declaration helped him, because New Jersey has its Atlantic City where they bathe both sides. Still others say a young man named Lindbergh married Morrow's daughter, Ann, and that it is Lindbergh's popularity that makes the "old man" fly so high in politics. And still others say that old man Morrow acted sensibly down in Mexico when he made our American people stop teasing the Mexicans.

Political prophets, no doubt, are leading Mr. Morrow to the White House. But even that appears foolish; the most foolish of all, probably. His party associates would know that if depression strikes the Republican Party hard enough to knock it off the track that Morrow is too true to its old precepts to redeem it. If they can't save it with Hoover, they need not trot out Morrow.

SURPRISE OF LIFE, SHE SAYS

"I took nearly every medicine recommended for my troubles, but nothing did me any real good until I took

MRS. R. W. ALBERT

Sargon, and it gave me the surprise of my life. I could hardly retain food, my liver was disordered, I was dreadfully constipated and suffered with sick headaches. I had lost so much weight and strength that I had n't the energy or life to do anything. Sargon gave me a splendid appetite, and my digestion is perfect. I never have headaches, I'm fast regaining my lost weight and have just lots of new strength and energy.

"Sargon Pills relieved me of constipation, cleansed my system of poisons and left me feeling toned up instead of causing that weak, let-down feeling produced by the usual laxatives." Mrs. R. W. Albert, 1802 Blanding St., Columbia, S. C. S. R. Biggs Drug Co., agents—adv.

"TRY CARDUI AGAIN"

Mother's Advice to Daughter Was Followed, and She Soon Got Better.

North Little Rock, Ark.—"Shortly after my marriage, my health wasn't very good," writes Mrs. W. E. Burgin, 315 West Second Street, this city. "I had severe cramping spells, and at times I would have to go to bed. This would be very weakening. I took about five bottles of Cardui, and at this time and my strength came back. I did not have any more trouble for some time."

Several years later, Mrs. Burgin found herself debilitated by heavy home responsibilities, and she explains: "I seemed very slow in getting my strength back. I was too weak to do anything but just lie around. I would get very nervous over my condition."

"My mother told me I ought to try Cardui again. I did, and soon was getting better. When I had taken about four bottles of Cardui, I was able to do my work again, and haven't had to take it any more." If you are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, take Cardui, a medicine used by women for over fifty years. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of others who have praised Cardui for the benefits they have felt after taking it. Get a bottle, today.
