Error Made As To Time for Personal Property Sale

In the last issue of the Enterprise, we ran an advertisement for Mr. F. L. Gladstone and Mr. F. L. Haislip of Hamilton announcing a personal property sale on the farm of Davenport Brothers.

An error was made in the time of the sale, which should have read 10:00 a. m., rather than 1:00 a. m.

It is most earnestly urged that all members of these Churches avail themselves of the opportunity to attend these services during this season of Lent as much as possible.

COMMANDMENTS IN CHICK RAISING

As Essential To Poultryman As Moses' Original Laws Are To Man

The Ten Commandments of chick raising—as essential to the poultryman's success as Moses' original laws—are offered in the 1931 edition of the Purina Poultry Book—a handy hip-pocket volume of 100 pages, devoted entirely to the feeding, care, management, diseases, and cures of poultry.

In brief form this outline gives a simple plan of what the poultryman should do to raise a high percentage of his chicks—to care for them properly—to give them what they need for life, health, and growth—to cure their ailments—to guard them against infection and disease.

Numbers one and two of these commandments lay the foundation for chick raising: "Move the brooder house to new ground," and "Thoroughly clean and disinfect all equipment." These precautions are deemed necessary to prevent any chance of disease being carried over from last year and to give this year's chicks the chance to start without handicaps of any kind.

The third commandment advises that brooder houses and stoves be carefully regulated for several days before the chicks arrive to insure even, steady temperature conditions, proper ventilations, and the elimination of drafts.

A sound piece of advice is offered next. "Start with early-hatched, vigorous chicks," with the explanation given that early-hatched chicks mean pullets laying early in the fall at the beginning of high prices, and broilers ready before the market is glutted.

Not more than 300 chicks should be placed in a 10 x 12 brooder house, the next law declares, since more than this number will mean crowding, with the consequences of poorly developed, stunted, and possibly diseased birds.

Commandment No. 6 explains that a drinking fountain and a two-foot Startena feeder should be provided for each 50 chicks to allow each individual chick all the room it needs to get feed and water—upon which life and health depend.

Frightening stampeding chicks by sudden movements is advised against in No. 7 since, if done only a few times, it will mean highly temperamental chicks which are thrown off feed by slight disturbances, resulting in poor development. Chicks should be taught to roost early, says No. 8, usually beginning about the third or fourth week.

The ninth commandment advises the adoption of a plan of feeding which will give the chicks the right start and the best chances for growth throughout.

Finally it is recommended that every poultryman remove the cockerels, which are usually about half his flock, fatten them in a separate pen, and market them as broilers as soon as possible.

The complete set of commandments is contained in the Purina Poultry Book together with a full explanation and detailed information on poultry raising. A copy may be obtained from Lindsley Ice Company the local Purina dealer, at the store with the Checkerboard Sign.

2 GOOD REASONS FOR SAVING SEED

Costs Are Small and One Is Assured That There Are No Diseases

Money sent away each year to purchase farm seeds could be used profitably in farm operations at home but aside from this there are two other good reasons why every landowner should grow and save his own seed. First, they can be grown at little expense, and second, the grower can tell whether they are free of disease.

"The purchase of large quantities of both major and minor crop seeds by growers each year is tremendous," says Dr. R. F. Poole, plant disease specialist of the North Carolina Experiment Station. "This outlay of money is not in keeping with the aims of our live-at-home program. Also there are but few crops grown in the State where high yield and high quality of product cannot be maintained by home production of seeds. Conditions are favorable in this State to improve crops by careful seed selection on the home farm."

Dr. Poole says seed can be grown at home at little expense. The ripening and curing needs are not expensive. About the only attention necessary is to keep them in moderately dry storage and in tight containers. Seed may be saved from the finest quality fruits without losing the edible parts, and home-grown well matured and properly stored seed will always give high percentage of germination.

By growing seed at home, the grower can be assured that they are free from disease. This is not so easy in rainy seasons when heavy infection occurs before maturity; however, a few trials will give any grower a satisfied understanding of how stands and quality may be bettered by small effort. For instance, says Dr. Poole, the early bunch bean crop last season was entirely free from anthracnose and bacterial spot. No better seed stock could have been obtained from any source, yet most of these fine beans were plowed under. The grower will this season purchase his beans from another source at a high price when he could have had them very cheaply from a home supply.

The Best Expression of Your Love is Adequate Life Insurance

"As he waves good-bye to the little group in the doorway of his home, he says to himself, 'I'd do anything in the world for them'"

When he reaches his office— This same man, this man who will do anything in the world for the wife and the children who love and trust him—

Says "No" to a Life Insurance plan designed to guarantee food, clothing, shelter, and a decent start in life to the children who run to open the front door when they hear him coming, and to the wife who always has been his good pal.

Is "Anything in the World" just a meaningless phrase?
