FARM WOMEN BOOST COTTON DRESS GOODS

Taking Lead in Popularizing Cotton Fabrics, Mrs. McKimmon Says

Stylish dresses for all occasions are being made at home by demonstration club women at low cost from textiles produced by southern mills. So far in 1931, the home demonstration club women have held 51 style shows at which there were 59,922 persons.

"We feel that the farm women of North Carolina are taking a leading part in popularizing cotton fabrics," says Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, assistant extension director at State College. "We began holding our style or cotton dress shows back in 1922. During that year and in 1930, the women held 43 of these shows with 21,616 persons attending. Including the shows held so far this spring, there have been 81,538 persons present on these occasions."

The best thing about the shows was that women who had never appeared on any stage showed no reluctance in entering the products of their handiwork and they were glad to answer questions as to the cost of the garments and the time it took to make them. In most instances the dresses cost from one to two dollars and never over three. Grandmothers, mothers, and daughters all took part in the shows and wore their house dresses, suits, afternoon frocks, and even sports and evening dresses before the assembled groups of people.

Mrs. McKimmon says the women are learning how to make suitable clothes of becoming colors and properly made. In all cases the women use material made in North Carolina or nearby southern mills. In many instances they have cooperated with town women's clubs in putting on similar demonstrations and hundreds of

SHOULD GATHER PEACH DROPS TO CONTROL WORMS

Is Just As Important As Spraying, According to Specialist

Along with spraying, it is important to pick up the dropped peaches and destroy them in some manner to control the worms of the peach curculio. In the opinion of C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College, picking up "drops" is just as important and is as much a part of curculio control as is spraying or dusting the fruit. Worms in the dropped peaches soon bore their way out of the drops into the soil, and if these drops are picked up systematically and destroyed, many of the curculio worms will be killed.

Mr. Brannon says the first gathering of the drops should begin as soon as enough are on the ground to justify the labor. At least two more collections should be made five or six days apart. This procedure will get most of the worms falling to the ground in the infected peaches.

It is important, however, to so handle the drops as to destroy the worms as the collections are made. One good way is to bury the peaches in a trench 18 to 24 inches deep, and to cover the infected fruit with a layer of quick lime before filling the trench with soil.

Indications are that there will be a good crop of peaches in North Carolina this season. The best prices will be paid for that fruit which is free from insect and disease damage. Wormy peaches, especially are not wanted, and the grower must wage a fight with the curculio to prevent these worms. Picking up the dropped fruit should go along with spraying throughout the season to control these worms, declares Mr. Brannon.

PERU RESTRICTS IMMIGRATION AS RELIEF MEASURE

Vast Numbers of People Out of Work in South American Country

Following the practice of many other countries faced by heavy unemployment in a depression period, Peru has set up new and more stringent immigration regulations, according to a report received in the Commerce Department from Assistant Trade Commissioner Julian D. Smith at Lima.

It is understood that vast numbers of people are out of work in the South American country, and while a tightening of the immigration laws will not be of any great help in alleviating the present conditions there, it is believed the lax laws would aggravate the present unfavorable conditions.

Scientist Enters Arctic On 5,000-Mile Hunt for Eggs

Pittsburgh, June 10.—A 5,000-mile trip into the Arctic in search of a bird's egg was started from here recently by Dr. George Mikson Sutton, state ornithologist.

The egg is that of the Harris sparrow, an egg never yet seen by man but which Dr. Sutton hopes to bring back for the Carnegie Museum. His party will go to the Arctic coast of Canada by way of Winnipeg and Hudson Bay.

There are 284 native minerals found in North Carolina, a greater number than in any other State.

town people have seen cotton material worked up into lovely dresses. These garments, she says, are in marked contrast to commercial ones which generally cost twice as much per yard as the farm women spend on their entire costume.

SOVIETS GROW MORE TOBACCO

Expect To Increase Production By At Least 136 Per Cent

Soviet Russia needs to increase her production of tobacco by approximately 136 per cent if her domestic demand is to be met and if the requirements of a normal export trade are to be satisfied, according to Soviet information forwarded by Consul Lloyd D. Yates at Hamburg, Germany, and made public this week by the Commerce Department's Tobacco Division.

This increase would mean a total tobacco area of 565,000 acres, and would involve the opening up of new areas where tobacco is not grown.

70.5 Per Cent Population Of State White in 1930

Of the entire population of North Carolina, 70.5 per cent are white, and practically all of the white population are native, thereby only three-tenths of one per cent foreign born. Likewise, of the native white population, nearly all are of native parentage, there being only six-tenths of one per

Hog Raisers Meeting
 At Town Hall
 Williamston, N. C.
Monday Night
 June 22nd, 8:15 P. M.
 Progressive farmers and hog raisers of this community are expected to be present.
 If you are interested in a practical discussion of hog feeding, don't miss this meeting. The complete cycle of pork production, gestation, nursing, growing, and fattening of hogs for profit will be covered.
 E. H. Hamel, of St. Louis, manager of the Hog Department of the Purina Mills, will be the speaker. He has had many years experience and has worked closely with the winners of pork production contests and hog raisers the country over.
 Mr. Hamel will be glad to answer any practical feeding questions that you care to ask. If you care to attend, fill in the blank below and return on next mail. We insist that you attend.
