Miss Cooke Hostess
 Miss Thelma Cooke was a delightful hostess on Thursday evening when she entertained a number of her friends with a dinner party honoring her 21st birthday. A color scheme of green and yellow was effectively carried out with jonquils, fern, and yellow tapers. Those accepting the hospitality of Miss Cooke were Misses Margaret Rodgerson, Lela Roebuck, Mary Carstarphen, Catherine Hardison, Virginia Harrison, and Messrs. Edwin Peele and Clinton House, and J. D. Page, of Robersonville.

Hostess to Bridge Club
 Jamesville.—Mrs. Carl Barefoot entertained the members of her bridge club at a delightful party on Thursday evening at her home in Jamesville. Three tables were arranged, and after several spirited progressions high score prize was won by Miss Ella Moore Davenport. The hostess, assisted by Miss Louise Roebuck, then served a delicious salad course.

Griffin-Manning
 Jamesville.—Mr. and Mrs. James R. Manning wish to announce the marriage of their daughter, Strela Yette to Mr. Wendell W. Griffin, on the 22nd day of December, 1930.

EXPENSIVE DOG
 Plymouth, N. C., January 28.—A jury in superior court here deliberated for two days before a mistrial was finally ordered in a case that involved the care of an ordinary dog. Gus Atkinson, white, demanded that Cheek and L. A. Bowser pay him $50 for care of a dog which he claimed he found a week before on his premises. The two negroes countered this with a claim that Atkinson "took" the dog while they were hunting in the woods. The negroes learned that the animal was at Atkinson's home and went to the house and carried him away without paying for his "keep." Atkinson indicted them for forcible trespass and larceny. A second trial incurring added expense will be necessary.

WRITES LETTER ON CONDITIONS IN LOUISIANA
 Former Washington Man Says We Don't Know About Hard Times (Washington Progress)
 "All we're praying for down here is just two years of what North Carolina calls a depression," is the assertion made by Dr. John W. Williams, director of public health work at Monroe, La., and former Beaufort County health director. In a letter to The Progress he describes recent flood conditions in his section of the country and compares the lot of the people down there with that of residents in Eastern North Carolina. Here is his letter:
 "If water was to suddenly inundate Washington and every one in it had to move a little of their furniture across the river, leaving the remainder stacked on scaffolds in a home to be later covered with water, and all of this done within a period of forty-eight hours, they would be going through our experience down this way. The Ouachita River divides Monroe from West Monroe—two towns. Monroe is well protected with levees. West Monroe is not. Monroe has a population of 37,000 people. West Monroe, 7,500. The big majority of those living in West Monroe have had to come over. Live in any kind of a house they could find. Some of them in box cars. No camps were established because of the rains, and it might be cold before the thing is over. The flood stage of the river is 40 feet, and tonight it is 46 feet high. One foot of the top of the levees as it stands now, with more water expected from Arkansas. Of course, those of us from Washington are wearing long faces, but the majority of the people are taking this thing standing up. It is their second one within five years, and you have never seen such people. Giving their time and money to take care of those who have suffered. Working, joking, laughing and cussing, but taking care of the situation. When I read a paper from home about all the belly-aching over a bank going broke and taxes coming in slow, it makes me sick. All we pray for down here is just two years of North Carolina's 'depression' as a respite from our afflictions. Stop your howling, you don't know what hardships are. Besides things are looking bright for you. You have John Stedman for treasurer. Make another Washingtonian governor, who is the only man in the state with sense enough to be governor (A. D. McLean), and you can forget your troubles. Down here it is not so altogether our own problem—because when the good Lord is not letting Arkansas burn up they are wringing wet. When it is dry, up there they come down here for us to feed, and when it is too wet the water runs down on us. And with it all, this is the fastest-growing town in the South. It is not a case of patiently taking what comes, it is a case of meeting it head-on and seeing it through. When some of us, who by nature are afraid of hardships, ask some of these guys, 'Will things come out all right?' We are told, 'Of course to hell they will. We will make them.'"

Has Strawberries From Garden Christmas Day
 Mrs. M. A. Saunders, of Burgaw, reports having delicious strawberries from her own patch for Christmas dinner this year. A number of other growers report this delightful delicacy during this unusual season.

of home-grown feeds. Plenty of grazing in the form of permanent pasture and cover crops to last throughout the year where possible, was suggested. A good cow will need from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds of grain for one year. Then finally good pure bred dairy sires should be used to gradually build up the herd to a higher point of production and profit.

For a person to engage in the selling of cream or milk, he should have a unit of not less than five cows for the expense of collecting either milk or cream from smaller herds is rather heavy. To further develop the dairy industry, Mr. Arey says the committees recommend feeding liberally of a balanced ration made up almost entirely

Prices Reduced On Pressing

Beginning this week, we are reducing prices on the cleaning and pressing of men's suits. We are making this reduction in an effort to stimulate business and assist those who have had their salaries reduced or have a limited income.

Men's Suits Pressed 35c
Men's Suits Dry Cleaned 65c

With this reduction we are going to give the same attention to every job and strive to please every customer. At the above prices every man and boy can afford to have their clothes cleaned and pressed. Clothes called for and returned.

5 POINT VALUE IN DAIRY FARMING
 More attention to the dairy cow in North Carolina offers five opportunities to the North Carolina farmer.
 "While we realize the value of milk as a food and know that there should be at least one cow for every five persons in the State, we should not overlook the opportunities provided in increasing the number of cows in all sections of the State," suggests John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at State College. "In nearly every part of the State there is the opportunity to increase the number of cows so that the cream and milk may be sold. Farm dairying offers first a sure monthly cash income; second, profitable employment for farm labor throughout the year; third, a good market for home grown feeds; fourth, a system of farming that will check erosion and build up the fertility of the land, and fifth, cash returns from pasture land that would otherwise be idle."
 These five points were also recommended by committees of farmers at the regional agricultural meetings which have been held in the State
