The Method Doesn't Matter

President Hoover and Congress are having a little spat about bringing back prosperity. They seem not to be able to agree at which door to bring it in.

For their information, we would like to suggest that the people are not so particular about whether it comes in through the front door or the back door; the people simply want it to come and come quick—in big doses.

So please, Mr. President and Honorable Congress, don't wallow around Washington and block prosperity. All get behind and push. It will come quicker.

Distribute Taxes Fairly

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills stands with the rich. He warns Congress that taxes in the House bill aimed at wealthy individuals and corporations will retard the recovery of business.

The truth is that if they had been properly taxed in the past, times would not be quite so bad now.

The sooner the power of wealth to dominate business and government is broken, the sooner will general business improve. Big business is the only business at this time that is good. Special favors granted them and unfair business methods by them are the chief causes of our present dilemma. Now, it comes with bad grace for them to kick after they have fattened so long from business methods that give them the advantage.

Congress should not slack down simply because they squeal. Big business is not going to bring back good times. It is not going to employ labor, except as it has to, nor is it going to raise anybody's wages.

Let Congress saddle them with their reasonable share of the tax burdens of government.

Henry Ford's Philosophy

Announcing his new car and list of prices, Henry Ford, the mass producer in the automobile field, had the following to say recently:

"These are the cars and the prices. I think it will be granted that when an eight-cylinder car can be bought for the price of a four and in some cases less, I am justified in saying that these are low prices. No profit can be expected from them unless we attain a certain volume of production. Naturally, we hope to attain sufficient volume to keep these prices as low as they now are. A man asked me this morning if I thought the present system of doing business was going to last.

"I told him that since commerce and civilization depended on the manufacture and exchange of goods, I was willing to manufacture and exchange under any system. The only bad system I know is one that interferes with men working and exchanging what they make. We are just one concern doing our best to start business under present conditions. Other manufacturers are directing their efforts to the same public good. I think there is field enough for any article worth the money.

"There are just two permanent satisfactions in business for me—one is designing and making a useful commodity and the other is the jobs thus created. If you do one, the other naturally follows. I don't think it possible to separate them."

Falsehoods and Imagination

A thousand clues, and nearly all wrong. So many "clues," "tips," or "leads" have been given in the search for the Lindbergh baby that people are beginning to pay little attention to what they hear. Nearly all of these clues have come as a result of deliberate falsehoods or from foolish imaginations.

Two of the great troubles of the day are falsehoods and baseless imaginations.
