NEW GASOLINE ANNOUNCED BY TEXACO

Developed For Emergency Use --- Will Be Sold At Regular Low Prices

TEXACO OVER WITH A BANG

Early Indications Point To A Marked Demand for Fire Chief Gasoline

Early indications today pointed to a marked demand for Texaco's new Fire Chief Gasoline, Gus Harrison saying that every effort imaginable would be made and that even paper bags would be brought into use if necessary to assure prompt delivery of the latest in gasoline. Already favorable reports are be

NEW 'FIRE CHIEF' GAS INTRODUCED TO 150 DEALERS

Enjoyable Affair Staged at Woman's Club Hall By Local Distributors

It's here! Texaco officials making startling announcements here last night in the Woman's Club Hall when they told 150 Texaco dealers about a new gasoline, "Fire Chief," and the elaborate program planned all over the United States during the next 45 days. The meeting here was an enjoyable affair for the yisitors coming from Bertie and all parts of Martin County to share the gracious hospitality of George and Gus Harrison, the oil boys.

"I did not come up here to eat, and, in fact. I can't eat much," Mr. Charlie T. Roberson, popular dealer in the Farm Life section, said just before the meeting. But Mr. Charlie did eat, and so did every one else, many partaking too freely of the delicious brunswick stew, barbecue, slaw, Coca-Colas, cigars and cigarettes. Toastmaster Charles A. Harrison and his "hot" 10piece orchestra could hardly detract attention from the food, but Mr. Gus' introductions and the shrill notes did

BURY DEPRESSION

With the Very Reverend I. F. Sanderson, jr., conducting the last rites, "Ole Man Depression" was buried amid cheers at a meeting of Texaco distributors and dealers here last night. And the Texaco boys, bearing the corpse, buried him under ten feet of sod, there never to rise again not even at that final day.

As the orchestra played, "I am glad you're gone, you rascal," the more than 150 visitors cheered and turned their thoughts to better times ahead.
