50 Per Cent Cut in All Debts

A fifty per cent. cut in all debts, private, public, national and international, would go along way towards restoring prosperity. If half of the indebtedness of Germany, England, France, Italy, the United States and several others was cancelled, and half of the debts due the great banking institutions were cancelled and then let the cancellation go on down to the little fellow who owes his groceryman for food and can't pay him, prosperity would soon return. As it now is, we have bond and mortgage holders throughout the world who are anxious for the cancellation of debts due the nations so their claims will be increased in value. The only way is to cut all, even our own government bonds.

It will be remembered that these bonds were issued when money was cheap, and that the holder will get as much of everything for his half dollars as he paid for with his whole dollar.

Of course the wealthy would not see it this way. But when it comes to the principle of right and wrong wouldn't such a plan be better than bankruptcy, revolution or peonism?

The People Believe Senator Glass

The Glass rock certainly did make 'em holler! When Senator Glass charged big banking interests with buying up members of Congress, it certainly did cause a howl. Everybody knows that most Congressmen do not sell out. On the other hand it is the general belief that special interests buy up as many as they need to carry their points. Of course it is not always a cash over-the-counter deal, because those birds know the ropes too well to do any thing like that. It may be some special favor to a friend or some rich retainer or some family social prestige. Yet, whatever the case may be, the public believes many law-makers yield for various causes. The people believe the testimony of Senator Glass when he made the charge. And then some people believe that some Congressmen are owned, hood and horns by certain moneyed interests when they enter the capitol building in Washington.

Remove the Lion From the Path

Much is being said about the need of confidence in business. If the government will get the lion out of the path, business will begin to improve.

The lion is the dominating influence of a few great banks over all the business and finance of the entire country. Every well-posted man knows that they have taken advantage of world conditions caused by war and that they have so handled and manipulated our money system that nothing else has any value.

So long as a leading banker manipulates our financial system as Secretary of the Treasury, the giant banks will make money and the people at large and the little banks will break.

The government itself should handle the issuing and expansion of currency and not entrust it to a band of selfish bankers, who are as dangerous to the small investor as a hungry lion is among a bunch of lambs.

Impossible Promises

Sampson Independent.

We take it that a brighter day is about to dawn for the farmers; that is, if the politicians are to be believed. Every candidate for township constable to the United States Senate, who has taken the stump so far in the present campaign, has a plan that is dead sure to remedy the ills that beset agriculture. But if we rightly remember, that same line of talk has been used by candidates every two years since elections have been held, and up to the present writing the results, regardless of who was elected, have been about the same—nil. The fact that the farmer ever stands in the need of aid is the reason, no doubt, that the politicians give them so much thought and attention during the campaign. There ought to be a remedy, to be sure, but campaign promises have been slow to bring it about. And we have no reason to believe that the promises of 1932 are materially different from those of other years. The thing for which we blame political candidates, generally speaking, is that they

Out of Balance

South American farmers and laborers are said to be harder hit than our North American people. If that is true, those people are having it pretty tough. It seems as if those loans floated at the expense of the people of the States and made to those to the south of us did not help the rank and file very much. It just looks as if the big folks of the world have combined against the little folks, and are about to starve them to death.

It turns out that all the money made during the past ten years in this country and abroad has gone to a few folks. In this country the money went to the manipulating banks in New York; in foreign countries the resources have been sacrificed by their rulers to a few American investors.

It is just too bad to see the world so badly out of balance.

Pensions

Pitt County Record.

The United States has always been the most liberal country in the world in providing pensions for the men who have served in its army and navy. Recently there has been a good deal of discussion of this pension situation, which is costing the taxpayers of the United States considerably more than a billion dollars a year.

We have no quarrel whatever with the principle that a man who has been wounded or disabled by illness while risking his life for the defense of his country should be taken care of, so long as he needs it, at the expense of his country. But we have no sympathy for the able-bodied, self-supporting man who thinks that he is entitled to a pension merely because he was under arms for a while in a training camp. And we have still less sympathy for the man who tries by fraudulent means to obtain a pension by special act of Congress.

President Hoover put his finger on one of the weakest spots in our pension system when he vetoed the omnibus pension bill. This is an annual affair which usually has a great many meritorious claims of would-be pensioners who are not by any stretch of the imagination entitled to be supported by the public. As Mr. Hoover pointed out, the people of the United States should not be taxed to pension a man who was court-martialed for drunkenness and conduct prejudicial to good order and was finally discharged without honor for the good of the service, or for a man whose injuries were incurred in attempting suicide, or for a soldier whose only injury was the loss of a leg by being run over by a street car when he was lying on the track intoxicated. Those are only a few of the fraudulent claims for pensions which were included in this year's omnibus pension bill.

By all means, we think, every man who has ever proved his willingness to die for his country has a special claim upon the nation's gratitude. But we feel also that the greatest care should be taken at all times, and especially now, to protect the nation against fraudulent pension claims.

Not the Right Way

Raleigh News and Observer.

Referring to the renewed discussion about silver, the Baltimore Sun says the silver question is so complex that "the easiest things to do is to forget about silver and take the position that the whole business was settled in 1896."

That may be "the easiest way," but it is not the right way. The only thing that was settled in 1896 was that the United States should not, or would not, undertake "the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation," and that Great Britain regarded the gold standard as so essential to world stability it would not debate bimetalism.

The "easiest way" is rarely the best way. After 1896, the discovery of gold in abundance in the Klondyke and in South Africa disposed of the silver question for years. Now that Great Britain has gone off the gold standard and the United States can sell little to silver-producing States, economists are divided as to whether trade will not be enlarged and prosperity aided if the world will return to bimetalism on a sound basis.

This Congress should instruct the President to seek an international conference to discuss the monetary questions, including bimetalism. That may not be "the easiest way." It is the right way out of the present maze.

Attractive

Goldsboro News-Argus.

A pretty girl in a light summer dress, with a smiling face on which art may have helped nature, coquettish, alluring and yet repulsing any too active advances, is enough to catch the eye of any man as she passes down the hard sidewalk.

But in the very perfection of her art of make-up and of dress, in the coquettishness which is part of the same artfulness, such a girl may often fall short of the attraction exerted without intent by the lass in simple overalls.

There is something about overalls on a girl—the appearance that is boyish and yet decidedly not boyish—hair a bit free and disordered by labor and the breeze, face rosy with nature's own ripe flush, sleeves rolled up to bare capable arms, which makes a man feel such a girl is friendly and not too stand-offish, one that he could get along with.

Here's to the girl in overalls, may we never lose her.

She Reduced 38 Pounds The Safe Way

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for 4 months and I think they are wonderful. I am 32 years old and 5 ft. 7 in. tall. I was very fat. I weighed 165 lbs. and now I weigh 127 lbs. and feel fine. If I set up taking the Salts one morning I feel lazy and heavy," Mrs. Florence Loftis, Boston.

This is just one of hundreds of letters we get every month—Kruschen not only causes you to lose fat but while you are losing it you gain in health—in vivaciousness—you lose fat where fat is most prominent and at the same time keep the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels functioning naturally.

Clark's Drug Store, Inc., or any drug store in the world will sell you a jar of Kruschen for a trifling sum—take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—go light on fatty meats, potatoes, and sweets. But for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous. It's the little daily dose that does it.
