Birthday Remembrance

One of the most appreciated re membrances received by Mrs. Fannie S. Biggs upon her 81st birthday here recently was a few verses written by her granddaughter, Frances Williams,

Grandmother dear; your birthdays here and cheer:

You're taking off years instead of putting them on;

Why you're just as pretty as the day you were born

Later in the years to come, When age piles up on me some, I hope I'll be as sweet and gay As you are on this eventful day. May my life be like another, And people will say she's like her grandmother That would be all the praise I'd crave, Then I'd know that I'd behaved. To me you're very dear,

And you have my love on your eightyfirst year.
