SCHOOL NEWS OF OAK CITY

Past Week a Busy One For Teachers and Pupils in School There

The past week held a very busy program for the high school teachers. Tests were given, meetings of diverse nature were held, committees appointed. For different projects relative to school and community development.

Quite a bit of improvement in scholastic achievement seems to have been the result of the past month's work. The pupils are accepting Principal H. M. Ainsley's suggestions seriously, that is the idea of trial promotion, which is based on good attitude, discipline, and scholarship. By keeping a daily check on these three factors the results are very favorable and commendable to the entire high school, only a few pupils will rank so low in scholastic standing as to have to be placed on the delinquent list.

The presidential election is holding a great interest among high school pupils, especially pupils who take history. Sample ballots are being collected to show and instruct the pupil how to vote. The entire number in the history class have made a straw vote for Roosevelt. The only reason a debate can not be arranged about the presidential candidates is because no student is proud enough of Hoover to take a stand in his defense.

The Oak City school is democratic in regard to government. Through plans organized at special meetings of the people of the community, committees have been formed, consisting of teachers and patrons to look after the problem of the unfortunate families who are unable to provide sufficient clothing and food. The school realizes that by helping others it will receive help.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Oak City School held its first meeting Friday night, November 4, in the school auditorium. Many parents attended and the business of election of officers was transacted. Mrs. E. K. Harrell was re-elected president, Mrs. J. H. Ayers, vice president, and Miss Adeline Tew secretary and treasurer. Miss Julia Holloway was appointed chaplain and several standing committees elected. A general discussion of a sewing circle was considered, resulting in Tuesday, November 8, being set for the first group meeting. The object of this meeting is to make clothes for children and parents who are unable to do the work. After the meeting and general business all patrons and visiting friends were invited into the home economics room where refreshments were served by Miss Rountree and her home economic pupils.

A dog show was given in the school auditorium Thursday afternoon. The majority of the school pupils attended. The show was enjoyed by all, and the training of dogs appreciated more than before. The school received $6 as one-third of the door receipts.

A welfare meeting was held in the school building Tuesday afternoon. At this meeting a committee was appointed to visit the needy homes in this community and make a report as to the condition of the families. The first and second grades of Oak Allsbrook. The idea of Hallowe'en party given last Monday afternoon. The leaders were Misses Harrison and Allsbrook. The idea of Hallowe'en was carried out in decorations, stories, songs, plays, and refreshments.

21 PERMITS TO MARRY ISSUED LAST MONTH

Largest Number Issued in Single Month Since Last January

The Martin County marriage license bureau reported one of the busiest periods during October since last January when only 5 licenses were issued, the Martin County couples. Last month Register of Deeds J. Sam Getsinger issue 21 licenses, 12 to white and 9 to colored couples.

Reaching a low mark back in April, when only 5 licenses were issued, the number of marriage certificates in this county has gradually increased until one of the largest sales reported in the month of October was made.

Licenses were issued to the following:

- White Thomas J. Roberson and Hazel Davis, both of Martin County. Dillon Wynn and Laura Thomas, of Martin County. Hubert Perry and Irene Perry, both resident of this county. William D. Glover and Emma Eugenia Hoyt, both of Williamston. Thomas B. Phelps and Carrie Louise Coltrain, both of Martin. Claudie Rawls and Evelyn White, of this county. John T. Brown and Frances Jenkins, both of Martin County. Irving D. Coltrain and Mary Clyde Hardison, both of Martin County. George Rufus Cherry and Thelma Ray Warren, of this county. George H. Holliday and Annie Riddick, both residents of Martin. Leaman Beach and Fannie Gurganus, both of Martin County. A. Z. Clark and Mary Wynn Roebuck, both of this county.

- Colored John Rogers and Terusha Bland, of Martin County. Charlie Gentry Phillips and Alberta Jones, both of this county. Willie Bonner and Maggie Finch, both of Martin County. John Manning and Mollie Dempsey, both of this county. W. C. Williams and Narcissus Spruill, both of Martin. Cornelius Hilliard Dolberry and Agnes Rosalie Parker, both of Martin County. Miller Strickland and Myrtle Ruffin, both of Bertie County. Levi Jones and Roseanna Bazemore, both of Martin County. Fletcher Bonds and Myrtle Lee Parker, both of Bertie County.

FERTILIZER BILL CUT IS MADE BY FALL HAY CROPS

Shortage of Feed Another Factor in Favor of Legumes

The shortage of feed caused by the dry weather of the past summer and the prevailing low prices for farm produce make it imperative that winter-growing hay crops be planted in North Carolina this fall. Returning from field trips over the State this week, extension workers at State College report considerable interest in the planting of winter hay crops. Farmers are reasoning that while it may not rain so abundantly in summer, the state is apparently well blessed with moisture in winter, and the recent rains have furnished ideal conditions for planting legumes and small grains. These crops grow from October to May and can be so managed that they will not conflict with the principal summer crops, such as corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, soybeans, and lespedeza.

Another argument used is that fall-planted legumes and small grains occupy the land at a time when it would otherwise be bare and exposed to the leaching out process of soluble plant food, and to the erosion of the soil itself. While the chief advantage of winter hay crops is that they furnish a good crop of fresh feed at a time when it is likely to be low, there is another advantage, especially where legumes are grown, that the fertilizer bill may be reduced and the land put in such shape that what fertilizer is used will pay better returns.

It is not expected that farmers will have much more money to invest in fertilizers next spring than they had last spring. For that reason, it is only good insurance to take advantage of suitable growing weather in winter to fill the land with humus and organic matter. Limestone and legumes are being rated as important soil builders in North Carolina this season, and indications are that both will be used to a greater extent than in the past, say the field specialists.

Former Martin Man Taken On A Bad Check Charge

John Evans, former Martin County man, was arrested in Weldon and brought here by Sheriff C. B. Roebuck to face a bad check charge. The man pleaded guilty to the charge at a hearing held here by Justice of the Peace Claude Nelson, of Hassell, Judgment was suspended for 30 days, during which time the defendant is to pay the prosecuting witness, T. C. Whitley, the sum of $7, the amount of the check. If the defendant fails to pay by that time, he is to serve 20 days in jail.

Peanuts Are Wet The weather has been extremely warm and wet for the picking and harvesting of the 1932 crop. It would be disastrous to pick your crop under such unfavorable conditions. Wait To Pick Your Peanuts By all means wait until colder and drier weather prevails for a few days before picking. A number of crops have been picked in this county, and practically every one is wet. Dark and wet peanuts have but little sale value, and you should exercise every precaution before picking. Cold and Dry Weather should come within a few days, giving ample time to harvest your crop. Picking when wet will also result in your having bad hay. Planters Nut and Chocolate Co. Columbian Peanut Co. John A. Manning And Roy Gurganus
