The Thanksgiving Season

Thanksgiving.

How shall we use it? In reverence or in revelry? Some will look around them and acknowledge the fatherhood, knowledge, wisdom, and love, and willingly bow down in reverent and solemn thanks for all the blessing of life that He hath bestowed.

There are others who will give no time to think of these things, but will spend the day seeking pleas-

Now, suppose every person in the United States would reverently dedicate themselves fully to the true purposes and intent of Thanksgiving. What a blissful day it would be in the hearts of men and in the sight of God. Doubtless if we all felt sure that our souls would go out into the great beyond as the sun sets behind the western horizon at the close of Thanksgiving Day, we would go sober, with songs of thanksgiving and praise in our hearts. Yet we will not.

Where Our Hope Lies

Whether or not we can come out of this depression depends entirely upon what we do for ourselves.

It is going to require action. The action will require a long battle line and a long campaign. The preparation and perseverance of the soldiery will determine the success of the campaign.

Unfortunately, there are some who think that our success or failure in this fight depends solely on political campaigns. There are others who are foolish enough to think that if liquor is legalized then prospertiy will cover the earth like the waters cover the sea. But, alas, there are too few who are looking diligently for the leadership of God, with and through His perfect plans to give man peace and plenty.

If there were as many folks to pray as there are who curse, and if more folks would give their neighbor as much as they would take from him, therewould be a wonderful difference in things.

The devil delights in dirty politics, because it is his cohorts who play the game. He delights in liquor and beer, because that is where his greatest recruiting stations are located, and where he charms good, but weak, men and captures unsuspecting youth.

The devil likes wealth, because it is one of man's greatest temptations to enter and follow a bigoted

So we need not put much hope in politics, not too much in wealth, and absolutely none in alcohol, because it is a mocker and deceiver.

If prosperity is to come, we must first measure the task; we must count the cost and then buckle on the armor of service. We must work; we must put our energies toward truth, honesty, and service. We must demand laws that protect virtue, morality, and fair dealings

The man or woman who thinks we can right things while we continue our present program of bigotry, pride and waste is an object of pity. But if we get right, do our part, then God will bring us back.

Do Not Rush Peanuts

Farmers, why sell peanuts at the present low prices? From every reasonable angle of thought, we need not expect high prices for peanuts. On the other hand, we need not expect to see peanuts of good grade sell for 1 1-2 cents, unless farmers pick them before they are dry and rush them on the market in poor condition. There is much damage done the peanut industry because some farmers rush them through the picker too soon, and then rush them headlong on the market. No factory wants wet peanuts, nor will any storage company have them if they know it.

What the farmers need to do is to have all peanuts inspected before being offered for sale. Then, if they are not in proper condition for marketing, hold them off the market until they are put in proper shape. Properly handled, the North Carolina crop of peanuts would doubtless bring the growers at least half a million dollars in premiums every year.

The old idea that some farmers are holding to of rushing their crop on the market a little green, when they weigh heavy and have all the dirt in them that they will stand, has been met by the buyer, who generally knows a lot more about peanuts than the grower. In which case the buyer makes the price low enough to take care of all the dirt and damage, giving the farmer the worst end of the bargain, even though he has an idea that he is smart enough to fool the buyer.

Farmers need to organize not only for better prices but for better grading and preparation of the crop to the end that the mill man may know just what he is getting when he buys, so he would fear no loss or, damage. Then the price of peanuts would be better, and the farmers would be in position to demand more.

Stand together, farmers. Don't rush the market when the price is no beter than 1 1-2 cents a pound. Remember that the peanut is the cheapest food in the United States today, and the price is more apt to rise than it is to drop further.

You'll Pay Today

You, the reader of this, will help pay for a fire today.

At first glance that seems an impossible exaggeration. The chance of a your home or place of business going up in smoke at a specified time is negligible. But-and here's the rub-so long as fire loss continues, you'll pay every day of your life, if you never so much as burn a tablecloth.

The cost of fire goes into every budget. Insurance premiums are based on fire losses-therefore, every fire tends to incrase, or to hold up, rates. A community's tax rate depends upon the number of properties and enterprises it has to tax-therefore, when a home or a business is destroyed, the taxes it would pay must be added to others. A percentage of fires throw men out of work and cause local industries to stop producing-and then we pay for fire in poorer business opportunities and commercial stagnation.

There are other ways in which you pay for fire, but these will serve. You might think them over next time you put off having electrical equipment inspected, or your furnace fixed, or delay until tomorrow cleaning that rubbish from the garage or basement. Fire prevention is an individual matter and can be achieved only by individual action.

Remember-you're going to pay for fire today!

Competition Aids Buyers

Competition is the life of trade, but more than that it provides an advantage for the buyer. In this currently best of all buyers' markets, competition among business enterprises goes on more intensively than ever before, and the buyer is proportionately better

We now have a new example to illustrate the point. The oil industry, beset with problems of conservation and overproduction and excessive taxation, is also very much alive to competition in the retail market. So much so that The Texas Company has gone out and made of its service station attendants skilled "graduates" in lubrication,

These "graduates" are certified as to their knowledge of automobiles by standards established by the automotive and lubricating engineers. They are first made to study all models of cars, then they are examined and if found capable in their experience with the 87 models on the road they are given a certificate attesting to this fact. With the certificate they are supplied newly developed equipment and specified products and may then go to work.

The advantage is three-fold and it arises from competition. Because the motor car manufacturer wants his automobile to perform properly, he cooperates with the oil industry for correct fuels and lubricants; the oil industry, interested in sales, develops the products which the manufacturer says are necessary. The motorist obtains the benefit of this united action.

Competition develops service such as this, and business and the consumer are mutually to the good.

From Pretense To Honest Living

Dr. O. P. FitzGerald in Roanoke-Chowan Times.

Now is the time to return to normal living. Days of pretense and extravagance must pass. Our economic unsoundness today comes largely from the reckless spending orgy of our people. Individuals and corporations overspent themselves, and in a state of near bankruptcy appealed to the Government to save them lest they perish. Never in the history of civilized man has any people depended so wholly upon its government to save them from their private mistaks as we have. This state of affairs can not pass too quickly. We must return to sober, honest living.

Spend less and save more is sound economic advice. We waste too much. We must learn how to spend our earnings. Too large a portion of our pay checks go for non-essentials. Too little is spent for necessities. The average man or woman spends too much for appetite and amusements, and not enough on wholesome, worth-while commodities. We must learn how to spend, and know how to save. The average family spends more for tasty luxuries than it invests in savings.

Economical living always finances its way. People who live wisely and well always provide for their household. It is the spendthrift who fails. Americans must come back to essentials. Churches, schools, government; these are the institutions which serve most and are supported the least by the average folk. They teach morality, give enlightenment, and protect a people. They must hold our allegiance and receive our support.

We must leave off pretense and take on honest living. Too many of us try to "keep up." We have a social standard to maintain. Our incomes will not allow the cost. But still we try to hold on. There is no disgrace in honest poverty. Pretense and false wealth is too costly. We can not endure it. We will do well in returning to the real essentials. Let us come back to plain, wholesome, neighborly living. Here is sure economic salvation for any people.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile -Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two ands of liquid bile into your bowels doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feet "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it com making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Ca.

lawyer and author, son-in-law of Longfellow and son of the author of "Two Years Before the Mast," names a Boston Trust Company as Executor and Trustee in his recently filed will.

Well-informed people in increasing numbers are naming trust companies, because of their permanence, experience and financial responsibility.

An individual Executor and Trustee may not outlive the terms of the trust. He may have to sacrifice his own interests to serve, or may give too little time and thought to the concerns of your estate. The Trust Company makes this the special work of carefully chosen officers.
