

Democrat Loans Man Pants So He Can Vote

Franklin.—Politicians may come and politicians may go, but none could possibly be more resourceful in a case of extreme emergency than "Uncle Bill" Barker, of Macon County, credited with being one of the most active workers for the Democrats here.

While campaigning for his ticket in a mountainous section last Tuesday, "Uncle Bill" said he arrived at a house and found the owner at home. Upon being requested to go to the polls and vote, the man told his visitor that he was without a pair of trousers suitable to wear "in public places."

Always resourceful, "Uncle Bill" invited his host to follow him into a forest near by. There the veteran campaigner took off his trousers and loaned them to the mountaineer, who donned them and went to the polls and voted. Until he returned "Uncle Bill" said he waited in the shelter of the forest, minus his trousers temporarily—"but glad to do a friend a favor."
