Golden Anniversary

Entering upon their golden wedding anniversary last Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogerson, of Bear Grass, were greatly surprised when they learned their 6 children, 21 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren had secretly entered the home and prepared a big Thanksgiving dinner and arranged a general family reunion for the day.

With all the children grown and settled in homes of their own, Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson had only prepared a small but a very appetizing dinner and expected a quiet day for the golden wedding anniversary. The dinner was cooked, and Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson, following a custom of a number of years, went to church services that morning. Her surprise was great when she returned home and found the large number of unexpected but always welcome visitors. Much upset though she was when she saw the large number there and realizing how far short the lone fowl would be in meeting the demands at the noon-day meal. All was happiness for her and all the family and relatives when she learned that they had prepared a huge feast.

Fifty years ago that day, the then young couple started out in life together. In a humble log cabin they founded their home, and from that beginning the couple strived ever onward, better their own lot and rearing six children as time passed on. Under greatly improved conditions, the couple continue to live at the old home place.

The six children there for the anniversary were Mrs. Claudius Roberson, of Jamesville; Mrs. W. S. Gurganus, of Williamston; Messrs. J. S. Rogerson, of Kenly; A. B., N. R., and C. G. Rogerson, of Bear Grass.

Meeks Family Reunion

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Meeks enjoyed a family reunion and Thanksgiving service at the Meeks home near here last Thursday. Elder Alonza Dallas, of Winterville, was present and he spoke to the large gathering.

Those present included: J. D. Meeks and family, of Rocky Mount; L. M. Meeks and family and L. R. Meeks and family, of Gold Point; Mrs. R. C. Gurganus and family, of Bear Grass; Mrs. G. L. Taylor and family, of Everetts; Mrs. F. A. Nelson and family, of Leens; Misses Bessie and Lillian Meeks and 22 grandchildren.
