STORE BUTTER FOR HOME USE

May Be Kept in Salt Brine for Use Later When the Supply Becomes Low

Farm butter, made from sweet cream, may be packed in salt brine and kept in the cold room for use later when the supply may be low, according to John A. Arey, who has recently prepared directions for storing any surplus of this product. Mr. Arey says by reason of the low price of butterfat, a number of housewives with a surplus of cream have been making inquiry as to the possibilities of making up the cream into butter and storing it for use later. This plan has been practiced by some North Carolina families for a number of years. The first consideration is that the butter be made from sweet cream. Given this condition, the resulting product may be stored in jars, packed solidly, or in one-pound prints. In either case the container must be thoroughly and carefully scalded to kill all bacterial spores. If packed solidly in such jars, the packed butter needs to be covered with a clean and sterile white cloth and salt placed over this at least 1-32 of an inch deep. If prints are used, a salt brine sufficiently strong to float an egg is prepared. This will take about one-fourth as much salt as water. Boiled water should be used. Then the one-pound prints wrapped in clean white cloth are placed in the jar with a string around each print so that it may be recovered easily. A stone lands of Robert D. Gurganus and John Roberson. Christmas Cakes

Swapping cakes at Christmas time is truly "an old Southern custom." In some locations it is just as important to pass plates of cake to the neighbors as having a Christmas tree in the window, holly wreaths and mistletoe hung over the doorway. In good years it is traditional in these communities that ten to twelve of the richest known kinds of cake must reside in their boxes for use during the week of festivities; in lean years, if the count must be the same, then less expensive types may be substituted. I am glad to know that this custom is being kept alive so the present generation of "bowl scrapers" and "crumb snatchers" will have the same pleasant memories that I have in spite of "Miss Depression."

A possible substitute for that delicious pound cake made by Grandmother's recipe is the old reliable 1, 2, 3, 4 loaf cake—the recipe is— One cup butter or substitute, Two cups of sugar, Three cups flour after sifting, Four eggs, One cup water or milk, Two teaspoons baking powder, One teaspoon vanilla extract, One-half teaspoon lemon extract, One-half teaspoon salt, Cream shortening with sugar, add eggs, then 1 cup of flour. Mix extracts with liquid and add alternately with flour. Add baking powder last. Bake in greased loaf pan at 325 degrees for 1 to 1-1/4 hours. This may be baked in three 8-inch layer cake pans for 25 to 30 minutes at 375 degrees.

This inexpensive spicy cake that is as deliciously fragrant as it is tasty and just as rich as we should have along with other sweets, heavy meats and vegetables.

Oriental Spice Cake

Boil together for five minutes: Two cups brown sugar, Two cups water, Add— One-half cup shortening, One package seeded raisins, When cold, add— One heaping teaspoon soda in One tablespoon hot water, One teaspoon salt, One teaspoon ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon, Three cups of flour, One cup broken walnuts or pecans. plate or follower of some kind should be placed on the butter to keep it in the brine, and then the brine is poured over the whole thing. From time to time it may be necessary to add additional brine. While the print is the more convenient form to use in storing butter at home, a less amount can be packed in a given jar. If only sterile materials are used in packing this sweet cream butter, and it is held in a cold place, good results should be secured, Arey says.

Bake in loaf pan at 275 degrees for one to one-quarter hours.

English Christmas Pudding

Two pounds suet, 8 ounces flour; 2 pounds raisins, 1 pound currants, one pound mixed peel; 4 teaspoons nutmeg; 2 ounces allspice; 2 ounces cinnamon; 1 quart sweet milk; 2 pounds bread crumbs; 2 pounds sultana raisins; 1 pound currants; 4 lemons, juice and rind; 4 ounces coconut; 4 ounces almonds; 16 eggs, 1 pound brown sugar; 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Skin suet and grind with dried bread crumbs. Clean and stone the fruit. Shred fruit finely. Grate lemon rind. Mix dry ingredients well. Beat eggs. Add milk. Add liquids to dry ingredients and stir well until thoroughly blended. Put mixture in well greased bowls and steam about five hours. Steam again before serving, at least two hours. Serve hot with hard sauce or brandy sauce. If you do not have pudding molds, use coffee or baking powder cans with lids. Store in cans until ready to use. The pudding improves greatly with age.
