

GROWING TYPE COTTON WANTED

Decreasing Acreage to the Short Staple and Now Meeting Mills' Demand

North Carolina cotton growers have set about producing the kind of staple desired by the textile mills and are steadily decreasing the acreage to short staple.

This is indicated in figures compiled by Glenn R. Smith of the department of agricultural economics at State College.

"Five years ago," says Mr. Smith, "North Carolina was known as a short staple producing section. Eighty percent of the 1928 crop was less than 15-16 of an inch. But now things have changed. Only 35 percent of the 1932 crop was less than 15-16 of an inch and from 1928 to 1932, the percentage of 15-16 to one and 1-16 inch cotton increased from 19 to 64 percent. This increase has been steadily consistent and was greatest for the staple averaging one and one-sixteenth of an inch."

Nor is this all. The quality of grade has been improved. Back in 1928, only 57 percent of the cotton was white middling or better. For the 1931 and 1932 crops, 78 percent was classed in these grades. For the United States as a whole, this percentage increased from 57 to 64, showing that the improvement of North Carolina cottons has been above the normal for the belt. Only in 1929 did the grade of Tarheel cottons go below that for the belt.

Mr. Smith says local ginners and cotton buyers have aided the educational forces of State College and the Cooperative Cotton Growers' Association in this work. The United

FEDERAL AID FOR FARM WORK WILL BE ELIMINATED

Home and Farm Agents and Agriculture Teachers Are Affected

It appears now that the offices of farm agent, home agent, and the one teacher of vocational agriculture in this county will be abolished along with other similar officers throughout the State and Nation despite determined efforts to continue them.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt has been empowered by Congress to make some drastic reductions in expenses to balance the national budget, and it appears now that the contribution of the Federal Government to the expense of these offices will cease, which will result in their abolition, as the county and State can not maintain them.

A letter, explaining the proposed suspension of the work, has been received from Congressman Lindsay C. Warren, and is as follows:

"When the matter came up last year I was presiding over the economy bill, and I feel that I did a great deal to help in saving the work. However, the situation is now different. It is out of the hands of Congress and is solely up to the President, who has been given the power to curtail or entirely discontinue some governmental activities."

"It is my information that the work will be discontinued. As you know, the government has been running at a deficit of a billion dollars a year, and it is the pledge of the new administration to balance the budget and reduce taxes. Therefore, many good things must be discontinued along with some of the worthless ones. I regret to see this step taken, but I am sure it will be."

States Department of Agriculture has cooperated with the Experiment Station during the last five years in securing accurate data about cotton in an effort to stop the deterioration which was then becoming apparent. He says also that the production of a quality of cotton not in demand is uneconomical and wasteful for the grower.

Canning Schools Will Be Held in County This Week

Canning schools are scheduled for the county, beginning Thursday of this week in the Jamesville Woman's Club rooms, at 10 a. m. The second school will be held in the afternoon at the home agent's office at 2 p. m. On Friday the same canning schools will be held for colored folks in and around Williamston and in the afternoon at Parme. Women in organized clubs are asked to have two canning leaders to attend the schools on Thursday and also have women from communities where there are no organized groups. At the school, conducted in Jamesville, there should be representatives from Hardisons Mill, Dardens, Poplar Chapel, Ange Town, Jamesville, and Farm Life. The purpose of the schools is to prepare all folks in the county to preserve food for winter use for 1933 and eliminate the number of people who have been going hungry. Methods of preserving vegetables will be given all those attending, and each one is asked to go forth to help all folks in the county to can or dry vegetables for winter.

where their wives and children go for little purchases and pleasures, and where necessary commodities must be bought, would not embody, as a part of their business, beer saloons.

If these places dispense beer, then every time our women and children need to go inside, for any purpose, whatever, they must pass into an establishment all scented up with alcohol, and into a public place where alcoholic beverage is being consumed by men and women. And a good many people here would walk into that only under protest; and, if they had any other place to go, wouldn't walk in at all.

MINISTER HOPES DRUG SHOPS NOT TO SELL 3.2 BEER

For some of us have not forgotten the company that beer keeps. And we can not believe that the places which sell us our drugs, and up until now have offered us our wholesome social centers, can add anything to their prestige, wholesomeness, good reputation by adding any percentage of alcohol at all which, regardless of what you hope for, will change the complexion of the former happy, innocent, and pleasurable community centers.

We wonder—some of us do—if the drug business and the beer business will mix well? We wonder—some of us do—if in Williamston the soda fountain business will mix with the beer-dispensing business? And we wonder—some of us do—if a large number of our women and children, and some of our men, really want this change—this change from a well-ordered community center, where every one could feel free to go at any hour of the day or evening, to a place which, in the very nature of the case, automatically becomes questionable?

During the heavy production period of the spring there are three seasonal poultry troubles which cause considerable concern to bird owners. These are prolapsis, blood spots in eggs, and bumble foot.

"For the past three weeks we have had daily letters about one or the other of these troubles," says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the State College Poultry Department. "Prolapsis is always prevalent at this season, especially among high-producing birds. This trouble is indicated by a portion of the oviduct extruding from the vent and is caused by heavy, continued laying over a long period. It may be caused by the delivery of an exceptionally large egg. The condition is not contagious but causes much concern."

Dearstyne says that any bird suffering from prolapsis is immediately attacked by the other hens and will be killed unless removed from the flock. Attempts to wash the exposed part with a mild antiseptic solution will help and may prevent continued attacks but is not always successful. Isolation is best, and if the case is severe, the bird should be placed on a grain ration and fattened for eating.

Isolation is best, and if the case is severe, the bird should be placed on a grain ration and fattened for eating.

Blood spots in eggs also cause needless concern, Dearstyne says. This is caused by a small blood vessel rupturing while the egg is being formed. The condition is physical and is not contagious. Eggs with such blood spots are not unhealthy nor unsafe for eating. The only way to determine whether are blood spots in eggs is to candle them before marketing.

Bumble foot may be caused by a bruise or a cut, but the usual cause at this season is heavy production and a depletion of the tissue vitality of the feet. If it becomes chronic, there is nothing left to do but to fatten the bird for market or table. It is difficult to cure his trouble.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your feet don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. Beware all forms. © 1931, C. M. C.
