

VARIETY SOCIAL LEGISLATION IN 1933 LEGISLATURE

Some of Legislation Is Highly Approved by State Board

Raleigh.—The 1933 legislature enacted a wide variety of social legislation, some of which was highly approved by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare and other social groups in the state.

Two acts which the State Board has supported for some time have to do with illegitimacy and adoption. Parents of illegitimate children are now responsible for their support. The superior court has jurisdiction over adoption of children and now must require social case histories of a child about to be adopted and of the proposed foster home. Also a period of

MAKES FLY TRAP OF GREASE CAN

Goldsboro's Man Invention Costs Little and Does Work Effectively

(Transcript and Messenger, Goldsboro, N. C.)

"I don't mind paying taxes," said S. Ward, of South Stocumb Street.

"Huh?" said a stand-by.

Then Ward added his "if."

"I don't mind paying taxes if money is spent as economically and as efficiently as Roy Parker has been spending money in the case I have in mind.

"I want you to come out here back of the store and take a look. Here is a fly trap that probably didn't cost over a nickel or a dime. It is homemade, from an old tin grease drum, and the only expense was the screen wire. But it is the best thing I ever saw. There are about three quarts of flies in it right now; there are a million of them, it looks to me like."

"There no telling how much it would have cost me to kill as many flies as there are in that one trap.

No; I don't mind paying taxes when it is spent like that.

A check showed that Mr. Parker has about 31 of those home-made fly traps at various parts of the city. Sixteen of them are made of large steel gas drums, and 15 of them are made of the small 100-pound grease cans. If all of them are as effective as the one at Ward's store, literally millions and millions of flies will be caught this summer at little expense. The sides are partially cut from the drums, screen wire is stretched around the sides, and a screen cone fixed underneath as the funnel for the flies to crawl up through.

Mr. Carlton Phelps underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Washington hospital yesterday, and is getting along very well today.

trial adoption of from one to two years is provided.

A new sterilization law to replace the 1929 law which was declared unconstitutional in February should be of use in limiting the families of feeble-minded and mentally diseased individuals now contributing so largely to county and state expense.

Progress was made in limiting the working hours of women in mercantile and other establishments. In large establishments in town of 5,000 population or over, employers may not work female clerks, sales women, waitresses, or others of like occupation more than 10 hours a day or more than 55 hours per week. Enlarged parole facilities should result from the law authorizing the Governor to appoint a Commissioner of Paroles, and directing certain state departments to furnish him parole supervisors. The need for a parole program has been keenly felt in this state especially in the past few years, due to crowded conditions in the State prison.

The highway and prison departments were consolidated into the new state highways and public works commission. Sale of convict-made goods, whether produced in the state or in other states, was prohibited, except for agricultural products, stone and coal produced in this state.

For the first time, facilities for institutional care of Cherokee Indian delinquents are to be provided at Samarcand Manor and Stonewall Jackson Training School. Indian juvenile delinquents of Robeson County must now be accepted by these institutions. The sum of $10,000 was added to the appropriations of these schools for the purpose of providing suitable quarters.

Also for the first time, facilities are available for the care of the negro feeble-minded at the state hospital in Goldsboro.

Appropriations for the state charitable and penal institutions with the exception of the North Carolina Sanatorium, were smaller than those of two years ago. Some of the institutions suffered heavy cuts. It is understood the Sanatorium is to arrange to accept tubercular patients for 50 cents a day instead of $1 per day.

The acute employment situation in the state was recognized by the legislature when it provided for the appointment of a commission to study causes of unemployment and to report on the advisability of unemployment insurance. No appropriation was made for this purpose, however.

The State Hospital head was empowered to transfer to other departments patients in the department for inebriates when such patients may develop criminal symptoms. Arrangements also were made for temporary care of inebriates or insane or drug addicts.

Marriage and divorce were made easier. The 1929 law requiring five days notice prior to issuance of a marriage license to minors was repealed as was the law requiring physical examination before marriage. The only health restriction now is that the groom must furnish an affidavit to the effect that he has not had tuberculosis or venereal disease during the two preceding years.

Divorce may now be secured by couples after a two-year separation, providing the plaintiff has lived in this state for a year.

Notice to Taxpayers of Martin County

We fully realize that these are terribly hard times to pay taxes. Yet we sometimes wonder if our citizens are not drifting away from the idea that it is our duty to help support our county.

In these difficult times if we are not careful we will lose sight of the idea of true citizenship. A good citizen will always be willing and ready to pay his taxes when it is possible for him to do so. It is impossible to maintain society without taxes and how are we to have taxes except from the people.

Your County Commissioners have been very lenient on tax collections, but the time is near that they must insist that the taxes be paid.

The law requires me to advertise all property for sale for 1932 unpaid taxes on the first Monday in August, to be sold on the first Monday in September, 1933. This is a matter over which I have no control, and I hope the people will pay before that time so no sales will have to be made.

C. B. Roebuck Sheriff of Martin County

You Can Depend on the Man Who--- ADVERTISES

Nine times out of ten you will find that the man who advertises is the man who most willingly returns your money if you are not satisfied.

He has too much at stake to risk losing your trade or your confidence. You can depend on him.

He is not in business for today or tomorrow only—but for next year and ten years from next year. He knows the value of good-will.

You get better merchandise at a fairer price than he could ever hope to sell if he did not have the larger volume of business that comes from legitimate advertising and goods that bear out the promise of the printed word.

Don't miss the advertisements. This very day they call your attention to values that tomorrow you will be sorry you overlooked.
