WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Ladies Enjoy One Of Most Interesting Meetings Of Season

The Williamston Woman's Club held one of its most interesting meetings of the season in the club rooms last week when topics of importance were discussed. A report of the meeting:

"According to a request in the minutes of last meeting, Mr. Hix made several suggestions, by letter, in regard to the awards to the school children which was discussed at the last meeting. After some discussion, it was moved that the president appoint a committee to investigate the prices of these awards and report back to the club at the December meeting. This was passed.

"Mrs. Mosley spoke to the club concerning shorter school hours for the children of the first grade. She stated that she had discussed this matter with Mr. Hix and he was in sympathy with the idea. After some discussion on this subject, Mrs. Piephoff moved (seconded by Mrs. Moore) that the club endorse the shortening of hours for the first graders to the noon hour, and that the president appoint a committee to confer with the proper authorities on this matter, and urge this change. This was passed. There were a good many of the mothers of the rural children present at this meeting, expressing themselves as being in favor of this change.

Miss Sleeper appealed to the club to try to improve the front of the courthouse premises. It was moved and seconded that Miss Sleeper appear before the civic committee with the suggestion.

"There was a letter from Mrs. Whitaker to the club asking that we put on two special programs during this year; one to be the fight against tuberculosis, including the seal sales; the other that some time in the early spring the club present a program on the care of pregnant mothers.

"Mrs. J. W. Watts moved that the time of meeting be changed from 4 o'clock to 3:30, beginning with the December meeting. This was passed.

"At this time the meeting was turned over to the program committee, Mrs. James Manning calling on Miss Sleeper who was in charge of the program. Miss Sleeper announced that she had two original playlets, one to be given by the women from Everetts, the other by the women of Macedonia. The playlet by the Everetts ladies was about cooking and canning, and the use of the steam pressure cooker. The playlet given by the Macedonia ladies was a real quilting party, at which time the participants discussed their sewing, better arrangements of home conveniences, etc. All of these women were from the home demonstration clubs of the county. On the program, too, was little Robert Martin from Jamesville, who bumbled his way to Williamston to appear on the program in two dialect numbers. There was also a little girl from the 4-H club of Parmalee, who gave the poem "When the Frost Is on the Pump-

UNABLE TO GET C.C.C. AID WITH FOREST FIRES

Is Not Furnished in Those Counties Not Aiding in Forestry Work

While the several forest fires started in this county several days ago have about burned themselves, many people in the county are still puzzled because the Civilian Conservation Corps boys failed to answer a call urging them to help check the fires when they were burning full blast.

J. S. Holmes, state forester, informed Mrs. V. A. Ward, representative of the local relief group, that the forestry boys were not allowed to fight fires in those counties failing to participate in state forestry programs. And that's that, but the following story, released Tuesday, would indicate that the federal government is willing to lend aid to the poorer counties:

"Forest fire fighting in North Carolina is expected to be made more effective this winter and next spring through the availability of personnel of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps for service in event of such emergencies.

"F. H. Claridge, technician in charge of the 11 camps in North Carolina. There was a display of canned goods for inspection.

"It was a most enjoyable program, and it showed in a small way just what Miss Sleeper and her work among the rural women has meant.

"When this part of the program was completed the ladies of the home demonstration clubs served delicious refreshments, cookies, nut bars and pound cake and tea.

"After the acting president thanked Miss Sleeper and the ladies for their part in making the afternoon a success, there being no further business, the club adjourned to meet the first Thursday in December at 3:30 o'clock."

TO USE RESULTS OF EXPERIMENT STATION WORK

Practical Application of Research Work Will Be Made in West

Practical application of agricultural research done by the North Carolina Experiment Station for the past several years will be made by the Tennessee Valley Authority, according to Dr. R. Y. Winters, director of the Station, who has been called upon to supply this information to the Authority.

North Carolina has eight counties lying wholly in the Tennessee basin and seven others having a greater part of their area in the basin. These counties are the westernmost group in the mountain section. Dr. Winters says the contributions of the station will deal directly with the agricultural problems of land use, adapted crops, soil fertility, erosion control, farm management, and the marketing of surplus farm products. Some of the research will also deal indirectly with industrial problems, particularly the manufacture of fertilizers adapted to the mountain section of this state.

Agrology workers of the station have considerable information on soils and fertilizers which Dr. Winters thinks will be of great value to the Authority. There is also information available as to fruit crops, truck crops, and other orchard problems. Farm management studies have been conducted for several years in the basin and these will aid greatly, Dr. Winters says.

Pastures and soil erosion are two other problems to which the station has given considerable time, and the facts developed can be used to good effect in working out these two important projects for the mountain

MERCHANTS ARE URGED TO FILE RETURN OF TAX

Deputy Commissioner Advises Immediate Action To Avoid Penalty

In a statement issued here early this week, John D. Langston, Jr., deputy commissioner with the State Revenue Department in this district, urged all merchants who have not yet filed a sales tax return to get in touch with him at once in order to avoid the possibility of a penalty.

"Many merchants in this territory apparently have failed to file sales tax returns for the quarter ending October 1st," Deputy Langston said. "These reports were due to be filed by October 15th. All merchants have been advised of this by letter from the Department of Revenue, in which they were instructed they should not wait unless they found it impossible to make it otherwise.

"A list of delinquents in this territory will be furnished from the Department of Revenue within a few days and we are anxious that none of the merchants in this territory shall be found delinquent and penalized for default in payment of this tax, which they have collected from their customers. I am urging the merchants who have failed to file their returns to immediately do so and if neces-

CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS
never get on your Nerves...Never tire your Taste

Judge G. Vernon Cowper

addressing a group of bankers recently, declared that three principles should govern banking in the "new age."

- 1.—Deposits should be guarded with greater care, the bank assuming a "closer and more binding obligation to the depositor.
- 2.—In making investments from surplus, the welfare of the community should be considered first.
- 3.—No form of speculation should be engaged in.

He added that "the quality of banking personnel" is of paramount importance.

These are fundamentals with which we agree. In its 59 years, the Branch Banking and Trust Company has seen peaks of prosperity and depths of depression come and go. Through all, it has held steadily to those fixed principles of sound banking which have always proved safest and best for our patrons and the bank. A bank cannot be really serviceable to a community unless it is first safe and strong.

We want this bank to be the greatest possible aid in advancing the financial success and safety of all our depositors, and through our Trust Department to safeguard and protect your loved ones. We offer you our best services for the "new age."
