Union Services

It is well that all the Williamston churches join in union services each Sunday night during the summer months. It will make us better religious neighbors. It will tend to break down the middle wall or partition between the various church people.

The apparent differences, plus the individual church people, is the greatest drawback to our Christian system. When we cooperate in the true spirit of Christianity, we will make a better impression on the world.

Let the Williamston people earnestly strive to show forth the spirit of true brotherhood.

Abernethy's Claims

Congressman Charles L. Abernethy made himself the laughingstock of the country when he stated in the Halls of Congress that $10,000 a year was not enough for him, that he was a $20,000-a-year man.

Now, he comes back with another statement and makes an ass of himself when he claims to have lost the nomination by fraudulent ballots. If his statement is true, then there has never been such fraud in the world as was practiced in the third congressional district on June 3rd.

The truth seems to be that Abernethy falsified when he said he was a $20,000-a-year man, and also when he said he was defrauded out of the nomination to succeed himself.

We need to let others weigh and measure us. Then we will come nearer finding out our true stature.

Choosing Our Lawmakers

A prominent North Carolina attorney recently said, "A poor man cannot be nominated to office in a Democratic primary unless he is a tool of a factional machine."

There is evidently a lot of truth in that statement. In the past half century, at least half of our legislators have been chosen by Railroads, special tax dodgers, or some other interests seeking special legislation. This is a very unfortunate thing, both for the interests and for the people. Both sides would have been far better off if our lawmakers had been left free to pass just laws, rather than to have forced a division of honest thinking into a body of selfish legislators.

The result has been to prejudice the public to the extent that railroads have been unable to get fair trials in the courts, all because of the laws they have sponsored through their legislative attorneys being more favorable to them than to their business associates.

Now they have to win their cases by rulings of the courts or suffer prejudiced judgments at the hands of a jury. No corporate lawyer can fairly take his legislative pay and his corporate fee and act exactly square to both his masters.

It is a sad day for the public interest when money and doubtful influence have more to do with the selection of our officials than honesty, truth, and proficiency.

The Way To Stop Lynching

The awakening consciences of lawyers throughout the nation to speed up justice in both criminal and civil causes in the courts of our country is going to do more to quell the spirit of lynching than any other one thing.

There are very few people who will go into a lynching party, even under the most aggravating circumstances. The biggest excuse is the slow processes of justice. Swift and equal justice to all men will satisfy the public and redeem the dignity of the courts in the public mind from that feeling of distrust and, in some cases, contempt for the slow technicalities of the courts.

Christian Character

Building of character through the processes of education is looming up in most Christian nations. In recent years, it has seemed to be the main trend to teach two things—one how to make money, the other how to dodge work. Both principles or ideals have proven very faulty, and the very fact that one of the principles of our educational centers is toward educating for lives of service by honest, safe and sound methods of living with our friends and neighbors on a 50-50 basis, where all are willing to give fair weights and measures.

A Worn-Out Controversy

Does the Federal Government owe Raleigh or Greensboro any special favors or any debt? Those cities seem to think in such terms.

They have been fuming and muttering about the location of the United States Collector's office for a long time. They have pulled political wires pro and con all the way from North Carolina to Washington. The people generally do not care a whit whether they write "Greensboro" or "Raleigh" when they send in their income-tax returns. All they are interested in is in trying to meet their check by the time it gets back. If economy in operation finds Greensboro more suitable than Raleigh, let Greensboro have it. If Manteo or Murphy is better, then let it go either east or west.

The folks are tired of a quarrel between Raleigh and Greensboro over the location of a government office because of selfish interests. Such things are in part the cause of much bad and costly government.

Teach Rules of Safety

Every day news comes of some drowning. Generally at some resort, but frequently at some old pond, where the boys slipped off from their parents and some of them got into deep water. Sometimes they dive into shallow water and kill themselves.

Swimming is one of the finest of all sports, and everybody needs to be taught the art of swimming. Yet every person needs to know the danger of deep water and swift currents. We might reduce death by drowning at least half by giving people proper instruction. A little of our war expenditures converted to teaching safety methods would be a good thing.

Too many people drown because they do not know the elementary rules of safety.

Swift Justice

News and Observer.

Among the many excellent suggestions made at the meeting of the State Bar in Durham, there was none which will do more to speed the processes of justice than that which would deny bail pending appeal to defendants after conviction of felony. Today, as in some notable recent cases, the criminal who possesses the means and has at his service shrewd attorneys can go free for months and years while his lawyers spin out legal processes to such an extent that the courts are made ridiculous and swift justice is denied. If such prisoners were required to wait in jail pending appeal, they would have less incentive to prolong legal processes by every technical legal device.

The Will To Kill

News and Observer.

"I want to be in on the death of the NRA," says W. W. Neal, of Marion, who, by the resignation of Clarence Darrow, has become chairman of the NRA review board.

Mr. Neal talks in the language of fox hunt. He talks in terms of the joy of hounding the quarry to death and not in the least in terms of a man seeking to discover mistakes and point out remedies. Anciently known as an old order, right-wig conservative, Mr. Neal has joined hands with those equally well known as old order, left-wing radicals to damn NRA. Insofar as the review board pointed dangerous tendencies toward monopoly in the present NRA set-up, the review board performed valuable services. There was need that errors be made clear so that remedies could be sought and clearly applied. But it is difficult to see how any good can come of the will to kill which Mr. Neal expresses in his desire to be in at the death.

Mr. Neal may be in at the death of NRA. He may be in at the death of the AAA, the CWA, the PWA, the FERA, the TVA, and FDR. If he is, however, there is the chance, not to be underestimated, that he will be in at the death of the USA. The will to kill in the economic and social advance of America today is dangerously like that of Sampson in the temple, and the certainty is that if the temple is pulled down it will not be only the Neals who are smashed.

Is the Laborer Worthy of His Hire?

Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Just what the condition of North Carolina schools and teachers will be when another scholastic year ends is hard to predict, but the State Democratic Convention which was held two weeks ago in the Capital City and the Supreme Court of North Carolina both "went to the bat" in their behalf two weeks ago. Each sees through a glass clearly in regard to the educational system of today's North Carolina schools and are seeking to remedy their plight as early as possible.

Among other planks in the State Democratic platform, it looks to the future with this promise to the schools of the state:

"The Democratic party again pledges its faith in the principle of state support of public schools for the full term of eight months without resort to ad valorem taxation, and makes its promise of a reasonable increase in the salaries of teachers by direct appropriation for that purpose if adequate revenue can safely be found."

Another point scored for the schools was made recently when Associate Justice Clarkson, in writing the Supreme Court's opinion in the matter of payment of teachers' salaries supplemented in 1932-33 and not paid in the city of Charlotte, said:

"No class of our citizens have greater responsibilities and duties to perform than our school teachers—to them are committed the children of the state, after they leave home, for training, guidance, and direction. The burden is great, and it is a matter of common knowledge that they have borne it with commendable patience and fortitude. They are mostly bread winners and the payment of their reduced salaries is naturally a great hindrance to efficiency and peace of mind—so important in training the young. How can they pay for their daily bread if they are not paid? 'The laborer is worthy of his hire.'"

President's Son Drives Ford V-8

Like many another man who loves the open air, James Roosevelt, Boston business man and son of the President, favors motor cars of the sport type. Mr. Roosevelt is pictured above with his Ford V-8 de luxe phaeton. The top is down and the car is ready for a run through the New England countryside, now beautiful in the first warm days of spring. Mr. Roosevelt not only drives his Ford V-8 de luxe phaeton, but also owns a Ford V-8 cabriolet, which can be closed in when the weather is inclement.

PROSPECTS FOR CIGARETTE LEAF ARE PROMISING

Unequal Returns Pointed Out by Hutson in Talk At Asheville

Asheville.—The outlook for cigarette grades of tobacco in the next two to five years was described in a speech here last week by J. B. Hutson, chief of the tobacco section of the farm administration as "promising, if the profits of manufacturers are kept at reasonable levels."

Hutson, addressing the annual convention of the national association of tobacco warehousemen, said that in 1932 tobacco growers received only $105,000,000 for their crop, while a dozen administrative officials of tobacco manufacturing companies receive over $2,500,000 for personal services "or as much as was received by 10,000 farm families for their labor, for the use of their farm, and for the purchase of necessary supplies."

"I have no quarrel with tobacco manufacturers," Hutson declared. "They have played the game under the rules that were laid down for them. There is a profit motive as is that of other groups."

Thin-Shelled Eggs; Cause and Remedy

At this time of the year many of the hens are going out of production and there is a tendency for a lack of calcification of the shell. There is nothing to be done in this case except to collect the eggs several times a day which will save them from being broken in the nest. There is a possibility, however, that the birds are not receiving sufficient calcium. This should be supplied by having oyster shell or ground limestone available for the birds at all times. A careful check of the flock will indicate whether the birds are going out of production or whether there is a deficiency in calcium.

"During the past year on several occasions we have found manufacturers willing to join with us in getting larger returns for tobacco growers, and we hope that we may have their cooperation in the development of other plans for a still more equitable distribution of the tobacco income."

"However, since the profits of each group over a long period must depend to a considerable extent upon the rules under which they operate, I believe that tobacco growers and probably also tobacco warehousemen should be giving more attention to the making of the rules."

AN APPRECIATION

I desire to again publicly express my keen appreciation for the loyal support given me by my many friends throughout the county in the primary last Saturday. Words are inadequate to convey to them the sincerity of appreciation which I feel toward every voter who cast a ballot in my favor and every person who said a word in my behalf. I shall never forget their friendship and shall forever cherish the memory of their confidence in me as expressed at the polls.

I wish to say that for my part, this has been a clean campaign. I have made no personal remarks attacking the character or competency of my opponent, but have at all times spoken of him in the highest terms. It is with the best of feeling to all that I resign myself to the fate which befalls me and turn again to private pursuits.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN D. LILLEY.
