

ALL-DAY SERVICE WILL BE HELD BY HOLINESS SEPT 30

Delegations From Near-by Towns Expected To Be Present That Day

Delegations from surrounding towns are expected to flow into Williamston next Sunday, September 30, for an all-day meeting under the evangelistic tent of Rev. W. H. Turner and party on North Houghton Street.

Members and friends of Pentecostal Holiness churches in Kinston, Greenville, Bethel, Tarboro, Rocky Mount, Scotland Neck, Roper, Robesonville, Roanoke Rapids, and some from towns without Holiness churches are expected to come at the special invitation of the evangelist.

A group of ministers, including Rev. S. A. Fann and Rev. J. T. Merritt of Tarboro; Rev. N. J. Medford, of Rocky Mount; Rev. T. O. Todd, of Bethel; Rev. J. W. Berry, of Greenville; and many other ministers, including the ministers of Williamston of every denomination are invited to attend.

Mr. Turner is one of the leading ministers of this denomination in the United States, and abroad for that matter. He spent nine years in China as a missionary with his wife, who also helps him in the singing and speaking in his meetings.

In addition to his mission work and preaching, Rev. Mr. Turner, is an author of note, having written a number of books and sold articles to magazines with world-wide circulation.

All of his dozen or more volumes, which includes more than 50,000 copies, have been sold. His writings have brought him as much as 2 cents a word. He wrote features and corresponded for the Hong Kong Telegraph, North China Herald, and Shanghai Times. He wrote a series of one paper on the political and religious condition of China.

He is a college graduate and attended seminaries of several denominations as well as the Pentecostal Holiness institutions. After all of his experiences and ability, it is said he does "old-time preaching and praying in his meetings," and has good singing. He recently closed very successful meetings in Wilmington and Whiteville.

W. N. Wood, assistant county agent in Wilkes County, claims the largest trench silo in the State for his county. He says it will hold over 100 tons of silage.

CAR GOES OFF CURVE IN ROAD NEAR PARMELE

Two Girls Are Painfully Hurt; Driver of Car Escapes Injury

Another attempt to "fly" around the Tom Roebuck curve on Highway 64, near Parmele, was reported last Sunday afternoon, when a new Plymouth, driven by Curtis Martin, failed to negotiate the turn and landed in Mr. Roebuck's pasture among the cows. Leaving the road, the car traveled down a ditch for a distance and then tumbled into a fence before landing in the pasture all poised and ready to return in the direction from whence it had come.

Martin, said to be under the driving age, was not hurt. Miss Nell Wynne Bullock, riding with the boy on the front seat, was badly bruised and suffered a cut or two about the face and head, the wounds being similar to those she had received in an automobile wreck just prior to the one last Sunday. Miss Tripp, of Bethel, was riding in the back seat and she was bruised and hurt but not seriously. Her main injury was a gash in the back of her head.

While none of the car occupants was seriously hurt, and while the cows were not hit, the car, belonging to Martin's father, was wrecked.

More Than 700 Attend Homecoming at Fairview

More than 700 people gathered at the Fairview Christian church between Jamesville and Washington in Martin County Sunday for homecoming day, according to Rev. Gilbert Davis, of Plymouth, who has been conducting a revival there for the last 10 days or more.

The roll of the members of the church was called and nearly every one answered to their names. A picnic dinner was served on the grounds. Rev. Edgar Harris, of Washington, pastor of the church, preached at the morning service and Mr. Davis in the evening.

Among the interesting members who answered the roll call was a Mr. Harrison who was about 80 years of age, who came by automobile from a city in Florida to be present at the gathering.

COTTON AGENT

By special arrangement, the North Carolina Cotton Cooperative Association will pay the same price for cotton at Williamston this season as at other points where special warehouses are located.

Even though one of the special warehouses is not located in Williamston, cotton will be received here and the same price advanced as at other points. Mr. Julian H. Harrell, at the Coast Line station here, will handle this arrangement and advance the cash to all growers who bring their cotton to the shipping point here.

This arrangement has been made for the convenience of many Martin County growers who otherwise might have to haul their cotton some distance, to government bonded warehouses, it is said, and since the price will be exactly the same, many are expecting to take advantage of this opportunity to save hauling and handling made necessary by distance from the regular receiving warehouse.

Final Cotton Payment To Be Made In October

Washington.—The farm administration has announced that the third cotton "parity" payment due in December would be combined with the second rental payment and that both are to be distributed in October.

The total to be paid out will approximate $72,000,000.

In this announcement C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, said:

"Payment of the second and third installment due under the cotton contract was combined in order that distribution of the payment to interested parties might be more easily and promptly effectuated."

He said tenants and share croppers had an interest in the "parity" payment and that to put off payment until December, the usual season for many tenants and renters to move to other farms, would cause unnecessary complications.

Catawba Farmers Secured Four Cuttings of Alfalfa

Catawba County farmers cut lespezea hay this season from the tallest growth ever recorded in the county. They also secured four cuttings from their alfalfa fields.

Hoke Farmers Have Free Cotton Certificates Already

Hoke was the first county in North Carolina to get its tax exemption certificates for ginning cotton this fall. Over 1,000 growers have already received their certificates.

ants have not the right in law to the possession, occupancy, custody, or use of said property or any part thereof, and the said defendants and especially the holder of the key of the said church is ordered and directed to turn the same over to the plaintiffs, and the defendants, their agents and representatives, are restrained and enjoined against obtaining and using any other key for the purpose of entering into said building as trustees and in assertion of any rights to hold, exercise, and carry on religious services as a group or body independently of the plaintiffs, but this judgment is not intended to restrain any individual defendant in this action from entering into the said church for the purpose of worship and in an orderly manner when services of the said church are being conducted under the authority of its membership and those exercising the function and duties of the organization of the Smithwick Creek church. The plaintiffs will recover their costs of the defendants."

The case, settled as far as the courts are concerned, continues uncertain with the Primitive Baptist church, as a whole. The Hayes Swamp unit is the one recognized by the association, leaving the parties to the controversy without recognition from other units of the Primitive Baptist faith. In short, the only issue settled in the court action yesterday was determining the plaintiffs rightful owners of the Smithwick Creek property. Just what action will be taken in the future is not known, but it will be confined within the church, it is believed.

According to unofficial reports heard soon after the trial, the losers in the case yesterday are considering the construction of a church of their own. The reports could not be verified, however.

The completion of the case has been eagerly awaited by the people throughout this section of the county, for they had friends on both sides of the controversy and were anxious for a peaceful settlement. Even though the controversy had its fault, there is one thing that can be said and that is neither side has resorted to violence or given rise to any material trouble. It was a law suit bitterly contested with parties to both sides standing up for what they considered right. Unfortunately, it was one of those cases in which only one side could win.
