Peel - Gatling
 A wedding of unusual interest throughout eastern North Carolina was that of Miss Esther Wake Gatling to William Garland Peel in Windsor last Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. News of the wedding came as a marked surprise to even close friends of the popular couple.

The marriage took place in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. W. Lyon, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Rev. Charles H. Dickey, pastor of the Williamston Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of immediate members of the family and a few close friends.

Mrs. Lyon played the wedding marches, and "To a Wild Rose" was rendered softly during the ceremony. The bride was attired in a suit of plum color with brown fur trimmings and brown accessories, and wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Peel is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gatling, of Windsor. She attended the schools there and was later graduated from Salem College, Winston-Salem. She taught in the Woodville schools, later joining the faculty of the Williamston schools. During her several years stay in the local schools, she made many friends throughout this community.

Mr. Peel is the popular and widely known son of Mrs. Martha Godwin Peel and the late Jesse Biggs Peel. He is general agent for the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, and is one of the most promising young men now connected with the company.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Peel left by motor for Asheville and other sections in the western part of the state. They are expected to return here Friday and will be at home on Simmons Avenue.

 is 5½ times more necessary to safety

Your big worry should be skidding—the cause of 5½ times more accidents than blowouts. Some People Say:
 the country is on the toboggan, with bad getting worse.

But records show the U. S. Treasury running 50 per cent ahead of last year and 150 per cent ahead of 1932-33 in "pick-up" in revenue. Since July 1st, RFC receipts through repayments of loans have exceeded new outlays by $135,000,000, 42 per cent of private loans having been repaid, much in advance of due dates. Wilson, of Babson Reports, say general business is now 33 1-3 per cent better than in March, 1933. And a prominent British economist has just published a book, "The Coming American Boom."

However you may interpret these facts, a savings account is indicated. If times get worse, you can use your savings for a rainy day; if better, for the sunny days of opportunity.
