Being Shown at Plymouth Sales and Service Show Room in Robersonville

Embracing all the new features and latest creations in automobile transport, the New 1935 Plymouth went on display at the showrooms of the Plymouth Sales and Service showroom in Robersonville this week.

Though the new car is of the air-flow type, its streamlining is not as radical as those on some cars. Included in the marked changes are improved braking, a new transmission, new clutch, and a steadiness in steering that of itself is a positive thrill.

In the 1935 Plymouth, front springs and rear springs carry approximately the same weight, have the same frequency and all parts of the chassis ride the same. Front-end shock is controlled by double-acting shock absorbers. The sway eliminator acts as a third spring and keeps the car on an even keel in making turns.

FLYING HOLIDAYS by Frances Grinstead

ON A snowy open field red and green lights flash upward—'Happy Holidays!'—or 'Have a Plane Christmas With All the Trimmings!' Against a cloud bank is reflected in fiery letters—'Fly Your Christmas Packages Now!'

Will Show Things to Catch the Eyes of the Passengers.

to our doors. On airport roofs the name of city or field will be outlined in greenery. Merchants may advertise toys and gifts in electrical letters placed horizontally on their flat roofs, and some will even have snow-top show-cases, with extra large dollies lying in cribs, bicycles flat on their sides or complete football suits spread out to catch the eyes of youthful passengers. 'Hey, Dad! Down there on Scott's roof—that's what I want Santa to bring!"

In the country the beauty of winter scenery will be decided by looking down upon it, instead of viewing it sideways. Looked at that way, a red barn and a pond set in the midst of evergreens becomes one of the loveliest sights from the air. "When all of us take to flying about at Christmas-time—at other times, too, of course—a family in Iowa or Michigan may order Christmas dinner from a Chicago grocer, or maybe they'll just hop in the plane and have that dinner in a Chicago restaurant. Another 'maybe'—perhaps they'll have 'curb service' right in the plane! Already transport planes for long journeys have served hundreds of flying Christmas dinners.

You need not be surprised at any of these things. Nor need you be afraid they will make Santa Claus old-fashioned, though he may have to turn his reindeer out on the moss fields and use his airplane anxiously to keep up with us.

Christmas Presents to Suit Individual Tastes

BERTHA NEVINS and her best friend, Mary Parks, were discussing Christmas. "It's absurd, Mary," Bertha was saying, "for two grown women to spend quite a lot of money, as we do each year, for foolish presents."

"But, Bertha, we have no families, and it wouldn't seem like Christmas at all—"

"Oh, we'll exchange gifts, of course, darling. Only I think since we have been good friends for so long we should be perfectly frank about what we want."

"You have something in mind," Mary smiled, and as Bertha agreed— "Well," she continued—"so have I. Something I've wanted for ever so long."

"What?" asked Bertha.

"Guess. It is to put in my living room near the window. The main part is small, and the outside needn't be large—"

"What is it made of?"

Dear Old Santa Claus by Earle Hooker Eaton

THERE'S lots of folks I'd like to know Who live in summer rain and snow; Who dwell as well, in cold and heat, And on earth's good old Easy Street, But here's the chap for loud applause, Our good old friend, dear Santa Claus.

Though men may come and men may go, Though kings speed fast and then go slow, There's one who gets here every year, On time with his old jingle deer, So hail this chap for loud applause, Our good old friend, dear Santa Claus.

The world is full of heroes great, On deck today, then out of date, But where's the child who does not cheer For one famed Saint to merry deer, Who does not give her loud applause For her good friend, old Santa Claus?

Wood, usually, and metal. Metal wires, anyway. And it will be company for me—" "To have sweet melody floating on the air. Am I right? And the color doesn't matter so long as it has a clear tone?" "Why, yes, but how did you guess so quickly?" "Because I wanted exactly the same thing for just ages. I'll give you one and you give me one!" "But what Christmas brought to Bertha was a radio, while Mary got a cage and canary.—Helen Galsford.

Land Is Without Snow

LITTLE Christian children who live in Jerusalem or who are traveling there with their parents will not have a snowy Christmas. Snow almost never falls in Jeruline, for the temperature is seldom below 38 degrees. When it does snow, the flakes melt as soon as they touch the ground.

Most of the people in the country where the infant Jesus was born do not celebrate Christmas, however! For only a few of them are Christians; most are Moslems or Jews. There are some Christmas trees in Christian homes, and gifts are exchanged among those who observe Christ's birthday. But there are no street decorations and no late shopping problem. The post offices have no big signs urging "Mail your packages early!"

Yet there is probably no place in the world more appropriate to visit at Christmas. The Holy Sepulchre is in the old part of the city, and at Bethlehem, six miles south, is a great church that has replaced the humble inn where Christ was born. Inside is a large flat stone on which the infant Jesus is supposed to have been laid, reminding us how Christianity grew from one humble life.—Frances Grinstead.

Giuseppe's Christmas Was a Grand Revelation

CHRISTMAS was approaching and Giuseppe was lonesome. There were others in the school from foreign lands but no one spoke Giuseppe's language.

Christmas had been so much fun in Italy. In the province where Giuseppe lived, a tree decked with oranges was the center of their Christmas festivities. All the relatives came to a big feast on Christmas day, and afterwards old and young danced around the orange tree, and, of course, some folks had a miniature manger with St. Joseph and other figures.

"I don't know how I am ever going to stand it," Giuseppe told his mother.

But she had smiled and said, "It will be all right, son. You'll see."

Then Christmas preparations began at school. There were carols to be sung—carols in five languages, and Giuseppe was to sing the carols of his country, all by himself. Giuseppe was very proud.

There was a play with the manger and the wise men, shepherds, angels and Mary the Virgin, and Joseph. Giuseppe could hardly believe his ears when he found he was to be Joseph. And after the program there was the tree.

"It was grand, wasn't it?" Giuseppe said to his mother and father as they walked home together, and mother and father agreed.—Florence Harris Wells.

Mistletoe a Parasite

The mistletoe, traditional Christmas decoration much more in favor in earlier days, when the ardent swains were not so forward and the maidens were more reserved, is found most abundantly in the tropics, although it is widely distributed throughout the world. The mistletoe is a parasite, living on the sap of the trees around which it entwines itself. On the Atlantic seaboard of the United States the mistletoe is found as far North as the Jersey coast, but is more abundant farther South.
