

FARLEY ATTACKS FINANCE AGENCY VOTE PLEDGING UP FOR ACTION IN RECENT TALK

Urges Congressmen-Elect Not To Tie Hands by Advance Promises

"To these Congressmen-elect, I would say that, in my opinion, a legislator who ties his own hands regarding legislation on which he will vote is committing to great a sin as a jurymen who goes into court pledged in advance to a particular verdict."

These words were spoken, not by some weaver of fantastic theories, but by the very practical Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic National Committee, in an address delivered in New York recently.

Without mentioning names, Mr. Farley delivered a sharp thrust at tactics such as were employed by the American Federation of Labor when it issued a questionnaire to congressional candidates several weeks in advance of the elections, demanding "yes" or "no" answers on a number of proposals, some directly benefiting organized labor, that are slated to come before the next Congress. Mr. Farley said:

"Already the newly elected Congressmen are being solicited to sign pledges, more or less, vague, which would enable these organizations to claim them as adherents and so make a showing of strength before or at the coming session."

He added that it is the duty of a Congressman "to keep his mind open, to preserve his freedom of judgment and his independence of thought, to the end that when he takes a position on any of the grave matters with which the coming Congress must deal he will vote as his conscience directs for the best interests of the people."

What effect the Farley statement will have upon the legislative program espoused by the A. F. of L. is uncertain. There is no present assurance that the President will sponsor the American Federation of Labor program.

Dairy Graduates Are Now Farming in State

More than 85 per cent of the students who have graduated in animal husbandry and dairying at State College are putting their college training to practice in North Carolina.

Of the 153 students who have graduated during the past 15 years, says Fred M. Haig, associate professor of animal husbandry and dairying, 16.3 per cent are county agents; 19.4 live-stock and dairy farmers; 16.3 superintendents of dairy manufacturing; 9.4 in commercial livestock work; 7.6 managers of livestock and dairy farms; at workers, and 12.2 per cent college and vocational agriculture teachers.

Present Authorizations for RFC End January 31, Next Year

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, first of the so-called "alphabetical agencies" to be established, tops the list of those slated for action when Congress convenes next month. Present authorizations for the RFC ends January 31, 1935.

Loans by RFC to banks and trust companies total $1,698,000,000, and to railroads almost $500,000,000, and loans to private industry total less than $20,000,000. Chairman Jesse Jones of RFC has expressed a desire to speed up loans to private industry, and for this purpose he has ordered that a review be given every application for an industrial loan that has been rejected by RFC regional managers.

MAKING PLANS FOR THE NEXT U. S. CONGRESS

President and Aides Said To Be Writing the Play for Next Session

Generally speaking, the present period aptly may be described as "between the acts." The voters have had their turn on the stage, and Congress soon will hold the spotlight. Carrying the figure of speech a bit further, it might be said that the Administration, meaning the President and his advisers, is writing the play for the next Congress.

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is that citizens in vast numbers, operating through organizations representing business, industry, agriculture, etc., are giving definite expression of policies affecting their various activities, which they believe and hope will be of service to the President and the Congress in dealing with problems that demand consideration and action.

Farmers have expressed, or will be given an opportunity shortly to do so, their views regarding the corn-hog program, the cotton curtailment program as operated under the Bankhead Act, and other phases of agriculture.

Bankers had an opportunity to express their views in their recent convention in Washington, and to hear from the President, first-hand, his attitude toward the business of banking.

Industry will express its opinion upon the various subjects of paramount importance to manufacturers at the Congress of American Industry in New York this week and the annual convention of the National association of manufacturers to be held a few days later.

Current reports say the Administration and the Manufacturers' Association are working in closer harmony than has prevailed at any time since the New Deal agencies were launched. Eagerly, the Nation waits for the curtain to rise on the next big act in Washington.

NOTICE
North Carolina, Martin County, in the Superior Court.
Alice Stallings, Virginia G. Simpson, U. D. Stallings, Jr., Jeannette Stallings, R. L. Stallings, Roland Simpson, Clarence Stallings, Irene Gardner and Ona Pearl Stallings vs. the Heirs at Law of J. B. Quartermus.
The heirs at law of J. B. Quartermus, whoever they are and wherever they may be found, are hereby notified that an action entitled as above has been commenced in the Superior Court of Martin County before the Clerk of said court to sell for partition the following described tract of land, to wit: Beginning in the Jamesville and Washington Road at the foot of the Mill Road, thence along the Mill Road 350 yards, thence southerly 140 yards, thence a line parallel with the Mill Road 350 yards to the Jamesville and Washington road at the T. J. Hardison corner, thence northward along the Jamesville road 140 yards to the beginning, containing 10 acres, more or less, said tract of land lying and being in Jamesville Township and state of North Carolina, and being the same and identical land decided to Mary E. Quartermus by John R. Walker and wife by deed dated October 24th, 1905, and of record in the public registry of Martin County in book 000 at page 325.

Said petition alleges that the petitioners named above are the owners of a two-thirds undivided interest in said land and that the heirs at law of J. B. Quartermus are the owners of a one-third undivided interest in said land. Said petitioners further allege that an actual partition of said land cannot be made without injury to the parties interested because of the small number of acres which said tract of land contains, and that a sale of said land for partition would be more advantageous to all parties interested. Said petition requests the court to appoint a competent person to sell said land under the order of the court and report his proceedings thereon to the court.

The heirs at law of J. B. Quartermus are hereby notified to appear before the clerk of the superior court of Martin County within ten days after the 17th day of January, 1935, and answer or demur to the petition filed in this proceeding, or the petitioners will ask the court to proceed as allowed by d18 4tw

THEY ALL GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

TRANSPORT PILOT. Maurice Maza, United Air Lines pilot, says: "When I notice that 'all in' feeling, I pull out a Camel and light up. My natural energy flows back. Tiredness is quickly relieved. I smoke steadily. Camels never upset my nerves."

HOUSEWIFE. "I never knew how much a cigarette could mean until I smoked Camels." says Mrs. Robert Styles. "I was attracted to Camels because they have such a mild flavor. And I find that when I smoke a Camel, I have more energy."

FOOTBALL REFEREE. Tom Thorp says: "The 'lift' that you get from a Camel sure is a mighty valuable thing to anyone whose job requires fast action. And I know I can smoke them any time I like... and they will never make me 'edgy' or nervous."
