

RADIATOR HEAT WITH NO CELLAR

New Heating System For Homes and Buildings Now Available

A radiator heating plant that needs no basement has been devised for small homes and buildings. W. E. Dunn, plumbing and heating contractor, of Williamston, said today in discussing modernization improvements which home owners might wish to carry out under the terms of the Federal Housing Administration.

Through arrangements made with the Heating and Plumbing Finance Corporation in New York, Mr. Dunn is prepared to undertake heating and plumbing modernization work for home owners and arrange all financing on the Federal Government's terms. No loan from a bank or other institution is needed to pay for the work.

Pointing out that more than half the homes in the United States do not have central heating, Mr. Dunn explained that the new heating plant makes it possible for the first time to install radiator heating in those homes which lack basements.

The system, he said, comprises a hot water boiler, to be installed on the main floor of the house, and a system of hot water radiators. An enameled jacket makes the boiler clean and suitable for living quarters, while a grilled top permits heat to circulate in the room where the boiler is installed. It is equally applicable to basement installation.

"There is now available a central heating system for every size and type of home," Mr. Dunn said. Prices on the different systems are in keeping with total home investments and values. "For the home with no central heating plant we will be glad to make a survey without cost to the owner; recommend the type of heating most desirable; and then, if requested to do so, install the system and arrange for a loan to the property owner to pay for it. Let me emphasize that there is no obligation connected with any survey we make."

FARMERS URGED TO APPLY EARLY FOR CROP LOANS

Form Has Been Shortened So Only One-Fifth of Time Required

The Production Credit Association now serving the five counties of Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Tyrrell, and Washington again urge all farmers who care to obtain production credit and pay cash for their production goods to make their applications at the earliest possible opportunity.

J. E. Hull, secretary of the local association, has just announced that their office has received the new forms which will be used for the 1935 season. He also stated that he was glad to announce that the forms had been shortened as much as possible and that a farmer could place his complete application in about one-fifth the time that it took him to make the application last year. All unnecessary information has been omitted, and if the farmer comes prepared to answer questions and knows how much he wants and what he wants to use the money for, he should have everything completed in about 20 to 30 minutes and, in a lot of cases, much less time will be required.

One great satisfaction to the farmer is that he will be making his application to an experienced person, which will help considerably in allowing him to know at a very early date whether he can qualify for a loan and whether or not his application will be approved.

The association requests that all farmers apply as early as possible so as to help the association from having too large a peak rush at the last minute.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to publicly thank all those who contributed or made it possible for me to receive medical treatment at Duke hospital during the past few months. All flowers or expressions of kindness were deeply appreciated. Mrs. W. A. Coltrain.

The association stands ready and wants to help all farmers who can qualify for a production loan. The secretary also announced that they had received about 50 applications already for 1935 which totaled around $25,000, and, from the past years' experience, the majority of these will be granted loans. The association has already received final approval on some of these for the coming season, and it is thought that the final approval on quite a few more will be received before the end of the week.

Farmers in Martin County are requested to place their applications at the office of Mr. W. H. Carstarphen in the old Dennis-Simmons Lumber Co., office in Williamston.
