

Test Indicates New Way To Fertilize Regular Corn Crop

Fertilizer Applied To Cover Crop Better Than Direct Application To Corn

Two demonstrations conducted in Craven County indicate that fertilizer applied to the winter cover crop preceding corn will give better results than fertilizer applied directly to the corn.

In both demonstrations Austrian winter peas were sown last fall and turned under for corn in the spring, reported E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College.

On certain plats in each demonstration approximately 400 pounds of fertilizer containing 10 per cent phosphoric acid, four per cent potash, and no nitrogen were applied to the acre before the peas were sown.

No fertilizer whatever was applied to the corn which followed the cover crop of winter peas.

On five other plats, no fertilizer was applied to the peas, but 400 pounds of 0-10-4, 400 pounds of 1-8-5, 200 pounds of 2-10-4, 200 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate, and 200 pounds of colloidal phosphate respectively were applied to the corn per acre.

Although definite results cannot be announced until the corn is har-one of those problems to be solved by the school folks.

Farm Life and Bear Grass reported many patrons at their openings, but the two schools are "on the spot," so to speak. Farm Life enrolled 60 pupils and Bear Grass 62 in the high school, the state requiring an average attendance of at least 60 if the high school departments are to be maintained. Increases in enrollments at both schools are expected.

Hamilton, according to the first-day enrollment figures, had the largest gain of any elementary department, Professor Edmondson reporting an increase of 30 pupils over the first-day numbers last year.

Blair stated that already it is clearly evident that the best yields will come from the fields where all the fertilizer was applied to the winter cover crop.

He also pointed out that fertilizer applied to the cover crop does double duty, since it causes the cover crop to produce a better yield as well as the corn or cotton which follows.

He urged farmers to bear this in mind when sowing their winter cover crops during the fall.

Ideals Back of Laws Stressed by Judge In Charge To Jury

the state to care for the less fortunate as of prime importance and one that is a distinguishing feature in our civilization.

Judge Cranmer told the grand jury that it was called together to perform a very high service, that the members were not called together through habit, and he explained the various ways it should function in supporting the laws.

An examination of justice of the peace reports, guardians' accounts, and inspection of county property were ordered, the judge directing the jury to report direct to him any irregular acts.

The large death toll on the highways was described as the result of carelessness, fast driving, and the complete disregard of the motor vehicle laws, and it was his opinion that the new drivers' licenses will not relieve the existing conditions to any great extent. He added that a man who wants to violate the law is going to do so anyway. The auto driver who takes more than half the road was placed in the same class of a thief, and the man who fails to dim the lights on his car in passing another at night is not right in his head, the jurist went on to say. Signals for driving were demonstrated, the judge stating that it was time we were waking up to stop slaughter of innocent people on the highways of North Carolina.

He threw a verbal bomb into the legal liquor camp when he declared that the famous three letters, "ABC" did not mean alcoholic beverages control, but did mean "alcohol before Christ." He explained that some thought they would soon be happy and rich, have no taxes to pay and the bootleggers would be no more under the ABC set-up, but he warned that taxes would continue just as high, the bootleggers would continue just as numerous, and there would be more liquor. Judge Cranmer referred to the saying of one Sam Jones, who declared he had rather have a blind tiger after his boy than a tiger with good eyes. "Liquor has caused more sorrow, more tears, and more distress than all the wars since the time of Joshua," the jurist declared in stating his uncompromising stand against the traffic. "No one will ever face me in this world or the next, and say that I made it easier for the youth of this land or any other one to get liquor," he concluded.

The first case on the docket was one charging drunken automobile driving, the jurist explaining in his charge that he would do his duty if the grand jury and trial jury did theirs.
