

LIFE INSURANCE

The Cornerstone of Man's Financial Structure

Will the above picture represent you in your old age or the period in your life when your earning capacity decreases. Through insurance, you, too, can have the comforts of life and a feeling of independence.

Life Insurance is truly "The Cornerstone of Man's Financial Structure." It offers an opportunity for a systematic savings program that will provide for virtually any emergency. It is best of all investments for the person of wealth or moderate means. It offers security, stability, a definite and increasing value as the years go by. In addition it will provide essential safeguards for your dependents and remove fear of a poverty-stricken old age. It will protect you against business reverses and guarantee an education to your children. Insurance is the financial ally of individual independence.

Guard yourself and your family against possible misfortune in the future. Let us tell you about a guaranteed income under any and all conditions and circumstances. Remember Life Insurance is more likely to keep your money unimpaired than any other form of investment.
