AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY MEETS

The July meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, John Walton Hassell Post, No. 163, met with Mrs. V. A. Ward, Robersonville, 18 members answering roll call.

The meeting proved to be very interesting, much business coming up for discussion and settlement. Mrs. J. H. Ayers made a favorable report concerning the Weathersby family. In response to a request for screens Mrs. W. E. Dunn gave a screen door and Mrs. J. D. Thrower promised to get it delivered to the family. Mrs. Winslow reported one of the children had been a recent guest for a week-end in her home. She found the little girl well behaved and neat.

Mrs. R. H. Goodmon was appointed delegate to the department convention to be held in Durham July 25-27. Mrs. W. H. Gray is alternate.

To direct the policies of the auxiliary during the coming year the following officers were elected: Mrs. J. R. Winslow, president; Mrs. J. H. Ayers, first vice president; Mrs. R. J. Peel, second vice president. The other officers are to serve another year.

Miss Eva Irene Peel presented a plea from Mr. H. L. Swain for financial support to finish the interior of the hut. The auxiliary responded with $75.

Mrs. R. H. Goodmon read an interesting article from the flag code. Two poems were given by Miss Eva Irene Peel and Mrs. J. R. Winslow.

The next meeting will be held on August 7 with Mrs. Annie Savage, gold-star mother, and Mrs. J. H. Ayers, in Oak City.

The hostess served delightful refreshments.

Worn Gins Account For Cotton Losses

Losses of $1 to $2 a bale are suffered consistently when cotton is run through gins in which the saws and ribs are badly worn, undersized, otherwise defective.

It also takes about 20 percent longer to gin a bale, and this means that the ginner takes a loss as well as the grower, said J. C. Ferguson, State College extension specialist in cotton ginning.

These losses can be averted, he said, by installing new parts or having defective parts repaired properly. This work should be done before the ginning season gets underway.

"We know that a great deal of poor sharpening is being done in the field by persons who take no pains to maintain factory pitch, alignment, or true-running saws," Ferguson stated.

The tooth point should be about one-third the thickness of the saw, and the leading edge of the tooth should be parallel to the fact of the rib as it enters. The point may be slightly in advance of the throat, but the throat should never be in advance of the point.

"Ribs should be carefully aligned. Badly worn ribs should be replaced or built up. The space between the ribs should be approximately three times the thickness of the saw."

The repair work can be done at the gin, Ferguson continued, but better results will be obtained in the saw cylinders and breasts if they are returned to the factory for repairs.

ALL KENTUCKY SAYS —
"WE'RE PROUD OF Kentucky Pride!"
A CALVERT WHISKEY

A REAL KENTUCKIAN. "But the breeding of race-horses is not our only achievement," comments George S. Morris of Louisville. "Try Kentucky Pride Bourbon, and you'll agree that here's the mellowest whiskey you ever tested."

"BARKSHANSHIP AND WHISKEY DON'T MIX," says John Maxson, Pres. of the Louisville Street Club (extreme right). "But I must say a drink of Kentucky Pride tastes mighty good after an active morning of skirt-shooting." — Kentucky Pride is sold by dealers everywhere.
