

Rules of the Road . . .

POLICE AND FIRE VEHICLES

Sec. 119, Motor Vehicle Laws of North Carolina—“(a) Upon the approach of any police or fire department vehicle giving audible signal by bell, siren or exhaust whistle, the driver of every other vehicle shall immediately drive the same to a position as near as possible and parallel to the right hand edge or curb, clear of any intersection of highways, and shall stop and remain in such position unless otherwise directed by a police or traffic officer until the police or fire department vehicle shall have passed. (b) It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle other than one on official business to follow any fire apparatus traveling in response to a fire alarm closer than one block or to drive into or park such vehicle within one block where fire apparatus has stopped in answer to a fire alarm.”

In other words, when a police car or fire truck approaches you with its bell or siren sounding, pull over to the right as far as you can and stop and wait for it to pass. If you are following a fire truck, stay at least a block behind it and park your vehicle at least a block away from where the fire apparatus stops.

COASTING

Sec. 127, Motor Vehicle Laws of North Carolina—“The driver of a motor vehicle when traveling upon a down grade upon any highway shall not coast with the gears of such vehicle in neutral.” This is self-explanatory. Motor vehicles are forbidden to coast on the highway.

Wiley, As State School Superintendent, Tried To Drive Bad Books From the Schools . . .

Calvin H. Wiley was a “first.” He was first to be elected to fill the office of state superintendent of schools.

Elected to this position in December, 1852, Wiley was assigned a task for which the entire Literary Board had been an inadequate executive. What this education board had failed to accomplish, one man, by the duties of his newly created office, was required to do.

Education and internal improvements in North Carolina were so far behind the times, that native and foreign writers used the familiar sobriquet, “Old Rip,” to emphasize the condition which existed prior to the Civil War. People everywhere are acquainted with the fact that Rip Van Winkle awoke after a long nap and found himself twenty years behind the times.

Wiley observed and reported: “North Carolina is considered by bookmakers the best mart in the world for uncurrent and trashy productions.” The citizenship of the State should have felt a deep embarrassment that any one should feel justified in saying “the very refuse of literary quackery is sent out here and circulated among our people.” The superintendent's answer was “universal education.”

A “first” task for the “first” superintendent, he said, was “to drive from our schools bad books.” When suitable textbooks were not available, he prepared them. Wiley's North Carolina Reader is familiar to many citizens of the State who attended school long ago. Geographies were so inaccurate that publishers were notified that none would be used unless corrections of the text concerning North Carolina were permitted.

Wiley's greatest triumph was his success when he went before the Civil War legislature to fight the school's battle. During the war, the schools were kept open. This was a direct result of the energy, zeal and leadership of the superintendent, for he failed to yield in face of discouragement and opposition. Of course, the schools felt the strain of war, but Calvin Henderson Wiley was in his office in the capitol when General Sherman surrendered to Joseph E. Johnston surrendered to Sherman April 26, 1865.

Following the fall of the Confederacy, all state offices were declared vacant. Education lost Wiley; and then came the collapse of the state school system.

The “wonder grows” why more of our public schools do not bear the name of the man who gave so freely the use of his talents for the establishment of a sound educational program for the boys and girls of North Carolina.

YOU ASKED FOR IT!
 YOU WROTE FOR IT!
 AT LAST IT IS HERE!

Due to the Calls and Letters Which We Have Received Asking for Pow-o-lin, the Splendid Herbal Medicine, We Have Secured a Large Shipment for Our Customers.

MRS. J. R. BOLTON

Pow-o-lin comes to Williamston with such a fine record of success in bringing relief to well known suffering men and women throughout the State, we unhesitatingly gave our order for a large shipment of this splendid herb medicine in order to supply our customers, many of whom have already tried it with such gratifying relief.

What is Pow-o-lin?

Pow-o-lin is a purely herbal, liquid extract of prized medicinal roots, herbs and barks, blended into a pleasant-tasting laxative medicine for the relief of poor appetite, acid indigestion, gas and bloating, sluggish, let down miserable feeling that so often makes life a burden. Pow-o-lin will cleanse toxic wastes from the intestinal tract, promote sound sleep and aid nature in strengthening and toning sluggish intestinal muscles. Taken according to directions, it will bring overnight relief from your sluggish, aching, let-down feeling.

What Users Say

Mrs. J. R. Bolton, well known resident of Route 3, Zebulon, N. C., near Raleigh, giving her heartfelt thanks to Pow-o-lin, states: “I was so let-down and sluggish I never felt like eating and every bite of solid food soured on my stomach and caused such miserable bloating I could hardly get a deep breath. My nights were sleepless and morning found me so worn and tired I couldn't do my housework or attend to my children. Harsh purgatives were necessary every time I got bowel movement and these vile laxatives sickened and weakened me. I don't believe anyone could have felt worse and I was so worried I was just a bundle of nerves. The very first bottle of Pow-o-lin gave me wonderful relief. I now eat anything I want and do not have to worry about the gas, bloating, dizzy headaches and worthless feeling. My housework is a pleasure. Eating plenty, sleeping soundly and leaving regular bowel elimination has certainly made me feel like a different woman. I owe my heartfelt praise to Pow-o-lin.”

If delayed bowel elimination, that sluggishness that saps your energy and strength is making your life miserable as in the case of this good woman, try Pow-o-lin. The first bottle must delight you, relieve you, please you in every way, or we will refund every red cent of your money. Pow-o-lin is sold and guaranteed by Clark's Pharmacy, Inc.
