

Library Service Is To Be Available in County Next Week

Bookmobile To Tour Rural Areas and Schools Over The County

Bookmobile service will be made available in Martin County, beginning next Monday, September 28. This service is a part of the regional library set-up for Beaufort, Hyde and Martin Counties.

Last year the WPA bookmobile sponsored by the county board of education, rendered a splendid and acceptable service. That, along with state-aid, was a stimulation for further activities. Through the efforts and generosity of interested citizens and the county commissioners, Beaufort, Hyde and Martin Counties organized the B. H. M. Regional Library Association. To secure state aid, they made necessary appropriations, purchased a bookmobile, and secured a trained librarian.

Each county has three representatives on the regional board. The members for Martin County are: the Rev. John L. Goff, chairman, Williamston; Paul D. Roberson, treasurer, Robersonville; and E. H. Ange, Jamesville. Books are purchased for each county in accordance with the local appropriation. New books are being purchased and processed in the headquarters office, now located in the Washington Public Library. The new books will be supplemented by a loan collection from the North Carolina Library Commission and from the public library units in each of the counties.

With the present set-up of three counties to serve, the bookmobile will make its rounds to each county once a month.

American wine consumption is on the rapid rise. Total apparent consumption in the U. S. last year was 89,802,000 gallons of the joyous and less-joyous juice.

Book Circulation In Local Schools

The average circulation of books in the Williamston High School library from September 8 through September 19th was over three books per student, according to reports from the librarian, Mrs. Gladys Brewer. The total circulation was 893, of which 567 were books of fiction and 126 non-fiction.

Approximately one hundred and thirty dollars worth of new books will be added to the library in the near future as a result of the sixty-cent library fee charged this year in all the Martin County schools. Books of social science, natural science, history, geography, music, and useful arts have been selected at the request of the teachers of the various departments. This addition will serve to balance the types of books included in the library collection, already one of the finest in eastern North Carolina.

Special Broadcast For Nation's Youth

Through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company, a nation-wide broadcast over its entire Red network (originating at Station WEA, New York) will be heard on Saturday, Sept. 27th, 2:15 to 2:30 p. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time. The broadcast will be devoted to the purposes of Youth Sunday, the day following, Sept. 28th, when our young people will pledge prayer, worship and gifts in the spirit of the Presiding Bishop's Call, "Forward in Service." The speaker will be the Rev. Frederick H. Arterton, secretary for youth, the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, New York City.

As the Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council in the Diocese of East Carolina is deeply interested in the program for youth, all auxiliary women and other interested church people are urged to tune in on this broadcast.

High Court Affirms Decisions In Cases Handled In County

It is understood that the costs amount to a sizable sum.
Upholding the county superior court in another case a few weeks ago, the Supreme court held that when a man rents a piece of land for a stipulated amount after a lien has been given on the property as a whole, the crops raised on the fractional part is subject to the paper if the indebtedness cannot be satisfied by the sale of crops on the other part of the land.

Mrs. James Herbert Ward entered a Washington Hospital this morning for an operation.

Two Weeks Of Court Heard In Two Days By Judge H. Stevens

The case of J. R. Everett against W. H. Everett was settled by agreement, the plaintiff receiving on certain condition, $700, and the defendant title to certain properties.

A divorce was withheld in the case of Herbert Blanchard Manning against Evelyn Manning, the court ordering the case transferred to Lenoir County.

The case of Harry Jones against W. H. Carstarphen was settled by agreement, the plaintiff receiving $72.50.

Divorces, based on two years of separation, were granted J. O. Horne against Mary E. Horne; Delzora Moore against Abraham Moore; and Annie Eliza Bonds against Joe Mack Bonds. In the last case, the plaintiff was given custody of her son, Joe Henry Bonds.

The court was a bit puzzled by Dollie Elizabeth Boston's plea for a divorce from Philip M. Boston. The defendant was already married when he went through the ceremony with the plaintiff. Realizing that he was legally married only in the first instance, the court reasoned that no divorce was possible. The court ruled that the second tie-up was bigamous and void ab initio, meaning the second marriage had no legal standing from the beginning. Anyway, the plaintiff is free to go her own way rejoicing.

In the case of Charlie Killebrew against E. C. House, the defendant was allowed to amend his answer so as to allege settlement over disputed boundary.

The case of Goldie Hyman against Dora Williams was continued pending the completion of a boundary line survey.

A restraining order was continued in the case of Van Council against Archie Council, the defendant to complete the harvesting of crops and J. D. Leggett to handle their sale. A final hearing will be held later in the case.

Judgment in the sum of $326.11 was granted James McGraw against Goldman Package Manufacturing Company.

John R. Coltrane was awarded a $10 judgment in his case, George E. Roberson, the plaintiff, claiming damage had been done his crops by the defendant's hogs. It was pointed out that the defendant had tendered $10 in payment for the damage, and when the jury held its award to that amount, the costs of the case were automatically taxed against the plaintiff, meaning that the action will cost the plaintiff $25 and the defendant $10, not to mention lawyers' fees, of course.

The status of an old deed of trust was determined in the case of D. G. Matthews and W. S. Rhodes against Danford S. Joseph, administrator of S. A. Dunn.

In the case of Irene Roebuck against Alvah Roebuck, the court ordered the defendant to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $70 as a temporary allowance and $70 to plaintiff's counsel until the case can be tried at the November term of the court.

In the case of George Wynne against R. A. Haislip, trustee, the court found that certain old notes had been paid and ordered copies of judgment entered in the register of deeds books.

The defendant in the suit of Sarah Copeland against W. R. Copeland was directed to pay $17.50 on the first and fifteenth of each month until further notice.

In the case of Guaranty Bank and Trust Company against B. F. Britton, Jr., the court found that the defendant was indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $176, that the value of property against which the plaintiff held papers was worth $350, the seizure of which is to follow for sale if obligation is not met within a specified time.

In the case of H. W. Barber and wife against Vance Price, the plaintiffs were declared owners of certain property in controversy and the defendant was restrained from cutting or removing timber or wood from the lands.

In the case of John Deere Company against H. U. Peel, the court declared the defendant owed the plaintiff $308.10, that property repossessed was valued at $60, leaving $248.10 due the plaintiff.

The comparisons are necessarily limited because many of the better types of tobacco now being offered were not on the floors opening day, or rather the better grades of certain types were not offered in sufficient quantity to gain an accurate comparison of prices.

Germans Are Facing Stubborn Resistance In Leningrad Battle

Not only at Leningrad, but in the central front near Gomel, and in the south before besieged Odessa, the Russians claimed new victories today.

One village was said to have been recaptured in "the direction of Gomel," from where the Germans launched their southward drive to the Desna River. Before Odessa, according to Red Star correspondents, the Rumanians 13th and 15th divisions have been routed.

(In New York, the Columbia Broadcasting System heard the British Radio broadcast a Moscow dispatch saying heavy rains were falling all over the Russian front and that Russian planes had intensified their attack on German bases and troop columns in spite of the bad weather.)

At Leningrad, it was said, the German pressure seldom relaxes, although the Germans sometime fall back under counterattacks, only to return with reinforcements.

At one point before Leningrad Russian troops forced a river, charged with bayonets and routed Germans from an unstated number of villages, it was claimed, and Soviet cavalrymen, covering the infantry's flanks, hacked the fleeing Germans "to pieces."

At the same time, Russian airplanes battered at German airports and singled out German planes for combat, destroying 50 of them in one day, according to the Russian count.

This was the 50th day of the siege of Odessa, and, according to Red Star reports from there, the Russians gained considerable territory around the city after an intense battle in which the two Rumanian divisions were reported routed.

The Soviet Information Bureau said Russian planes shot down five of a group of German planes attempting to raid Moscow in daylight yesterday.

Tass, official news agency, said 600 German officers and men were killed, and 11 tanks, five armored cars, eight trucks, 29 machine guns, eight trench mortars and 25 boxes of ammunition captured or destroyed in one part of the central front.

Denying German estimates of the number of Soviet warships sunk, Tass denied that Russia had lost any warships, but claimed that Soviet seamen had sunk 14 German transports and other craft and one Finnish warship, and that they had damaged or disabled 10 German transports and destroyers.

In a surprise drive toward Moscow three German panzer divisions were almost wrecked, the remnants falling back after 20,000 of the barbarian attackers had been killed or lost, according to reports received early this afternoon.

Horrible stories are coming out of Leningrad where aged men and women and little children are volunteering by the hundreds of thousands to fight fires in the city while able bodies fight off the Germans in the suburbs and outlying districts.

Incomplete reports are trickling in telling about an expeditionary force of a million men making ready to move out of India to help check the Germans in an anticipated drive across the Caucasus.

Leaders in Britain are urging greater aid for Russia, and large shipments of supplies from England, including tanks and planes, are being moved there.

Japan is reassuring Germany of her friendship, and Britain is making plans to move her nationals from the Far East.
