Bride-Elect Entertained

Mesdames E. P. Cunningham and J. W. Watts entertained at a lovely bride party Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Cunningham, in honor of Miss Sara Cone, bride-elect of tomorrow.

Miss Cone was given silver candlesticks and Mrs. Paul Simpson captured the high score prize—Mrs. C. B. Crockett, Jr., received consolation. Mrs. Clayton Moore and daughter, Miss Jane, of Winston-Salem, were remembered with guest prizes.

Other guests of Mesdames Cunningham and Watts were Mrs. D. R. Davis, Mrs. Bill Glover, Mrs. Thayer Walker, Mrs. Victor Brown, Mrs. Marion Cobb, Mrs. John Hardy, Mrs. P. B. Cone, mother of the bride-elect; Mrs. Jack Edmondson, Mrs. John Roth, of Hay Springs, Neb.; Mrs. Claud Baxter Clark, Jr., Mrs. Mack Simpson, Mrs. Paul Simpson, Mrs. Abner Brown, Mrs. William Woodard, Mrs. Robert Coburn, Mrs. Francis Barnes, Mrs. Iverson Skinner, Mrs. J. H. Saunders, Jr., Mrs. Tom Barnhill, Mrs. Henry Griffin, Mrs. Jim Cooke, Mrs. Pete Fowden, Mrs. Edwin Holding and Miss Nell Harrison.

It's a New Record

This moment of ecstasy is just part of what Regia Toomey and Jane Wyman claim is the longest kiss in movie history, lasting for three minutes and five seconds as the pair were making a picture and ocular history in Hollywood.

Engagement Announced

Troy—Of widespread interest is the engagement of Miss Margaret Stone Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Reid Richardson, of Troy, formerly of Wadesboro, to Herbert Stuart Whitley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Whitley, of Williamston. The wedding will be solemnized in November in the Trinity Methodist Church, of Troy.

Miss Richardson is a charming young woman, a graduate of Wadesboro high school, later attending Virginia Intermont College, Bristol, Va., and Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, where she was a member of the Kikean society and Orchestra club. Prior to Miss Richardson's engagement she was attending hostess school of the Pennsylvania-Central Airlines, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Whitley received his earlier education at Williamston High School, later attending N. C. State College where he graduated in architectural engineering in 1939. He now holds a reserve officer's commission of second lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

A number of social affairs are planned for the pleasure of Miss Richardson and Mr. Whitley prior to their marriage.

N. C. Farmers May Use the Same Land In Food Drive

North Carolina farmers are being advised by state agricultural leaders to use their present farm equipment and cropland in the united effort to raise more food in 1942, says G. Tom Scott, Johnston County farmer and chairman of the State USDA Defense Board.

The Tar Heel delegation of agricultural leaders which attended a 13-state food-for-freedom conference at Memphis, Tenn., last week agreed that North Carolina farmers could meet their share of the nation's food increase goals with "just a few new investments in land and farm equipment."

Chairman Scott declares, however, that farmers will work carefully with AAA fieldmen and committeemen in setting up 1942 farm defense plans which will provide the requested food increases — increases brought on by the government's pledge to feed 10,000,000 more Britons next year and to feed its own people better.

Local committeemen already have begun the task of visiting every farm in the state to work out 1942 farm plans. Under the plans North Carolina is expected to increase production by: 58 million pounds of milk; seven million dozens of eggs; 10 million pounds of beef and veal; indefinite quantities of hogs, soybeans and peanuts, the increased beans and nuts to be crushed for badly needed oils.

In the food campaign next year, Chairman Scott continues, the first objective of workers and farmers will be to avoid the disastrous mistakes made by farm folk in trying to meet adjustments necessitated by World War I. "The plan is to observe good farming practices all the way through, to protect the farmer's land and his future markets," the defense board chairman said.

Winter Cover Crops Must Have Rain By October 15

A similar fall drought hit this State last fall and farmers who planted winter cover crops before or during the drought got poor stands and growth of the crops, says E. C. Blair, State College Extension agronomist. The winter cover crops will not suffer greatly this year if rains come in time to permit planting by October 15th. It is desirable to plant covers in September when seasons permit, the agronomist says, but October planting will serve only to make the crops later next Spring.
