Farmers Income To Increase Next Year

The year 1942 promises to bring American farmers the largest income since the record peak of $14,600,000,000 reached in the post-World War I boom year of 1919, according to Washington estimates.

The United States Government is planning to buy a billion dollars worth of agricultural food products in the next 16 months to ship to the British and to its own troops in Iceland and other far-flung Atlantic bases.

Farm marketings for 1941 were estimated today by the Agriculture Department to surpass 10 billion dollars, the highest figure in more than a decade. This is a gain of $1,600,000,000 over 1940.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's new policy of "plenty" of farm foodstuffs calls for the largest production in American agricultural history in 1942.

Wickard declared the Administration's previous policy of "scarcity" to maintain prices had been reversed for one of abundance during the present emergency.

The new policy of abundance, Wickard said, was adopted because the practice of the past eight years of the AAA of reducing production was unsuited to needs in a national emergency. He said:

"I think I can boil it down to two simple statements: First, the people of the United States need more of some foods, they want more and they have the money to buy more; and second, the Government of the United States has committed itself to provide certain foods to the British. By now it is certain that the United States will have to increase its production of certain foods if we are to have enough for ourselves and to meet the British requests."

Generosity Brings Case Of Cramps

All that Pvt. Jack McLoughan's generosity brought him was a severe case of cramps.

Private McLoughan, of Somerville, N. J., with fellow-members of Battery "E" 36th Field Artillery of Fort Bragg, is encamped for I Army Corps maneuvers near Chester, S. C. The other night he offered to go after cola drinks for himself and four tentmates. McLoughan, a generous lad, bought two for each, ten in all.

An hour later, one of his tentmates, Corp. Bill Fiederlein, found him doubled up in agony, outside the camp.

It seems that a hard-hearted Military Policeman had refused to let him into the camp area with his ten opened soda bottles. Rather than throw away ten drinks—Private McLoughan feels better now.

UNCLE SAM'S SAILORS ON HORSEBACK SEE PANAMA FROM THE SADDLE

No, the U. S. Navy doesn't have a cavalry unit, but many a sailor straddled leather before giving up his bucking broncho or plow horse for the bounding main.

The sailors in whites above are seamen in the U. S. Naval Reserve on shore leave in Panama. No distinction is made between sailors in the Naval Reserve and those in the regular Navy. Enlistment in the U. S. Naval Reserve is for four years, but all men enlisting in the Naval Reserve will be released to inactive duty as soon after the national emergency as their services can be spared, regardless of the length of time remaining in their enlistment. If the emergency ends within a period of several months, those enrolled in the Naval Reserve will not be required to complete their 4 year term in active service. Opportunities for advancement, to learn skilled trades, for travel and adventure are identical whether a man enlists in the regular Navy or the Naval Reserve, and his pay, food, clothing, medical and dental care are the same.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Beulah Faye Hopkins, who was called away October 24, 1940.

Just one year ago today,
Your little life was snuffed away—
How well we do remember
That sad and weary day.

I miss you at the table,
Sitting in your chair;
I miss you sleeping in your crib,
I miss you everywhere.

It seems I can hear thy little voice
And footsteps plain and clear;
Altho' I find they're just echoes,
That were left to dwell with me here.

Your little clothes I've laid away,
With tears trickling here and there;
I look at them and feel that you're so near.

And yet you are so far, far away,
Far from a world of sin and strife,
You now enjoy a heavenly life;
Singing with the angels fair,
Without a sorrow, tear or care.

Your little name is often spoken,
By your two playmates you left that
day;
When another little girl joins in the circle,
They look all around as if to say,
Mother, don't she look like our Beulah Faye?

Your little picture, I keep so near;
I gaze at it day after day;
And wonder why a little girl so sweet

Could be snuffed right off her feet.
I try to look on the bright side,
And not let it grieve me so,
But when I wander around your
grave,
My heart does overflow.

If we could see your smiling face,
Delighted with the happy place;
We could not wish you back again,
But strive and pray that home to gain.

Beulah, you're gone but not forgotten,
Never will your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger
In my heart and around your grave.

Oh, peaceful sleep, Oh happy rest,
Leaning on thy Saviour's breast,
God called you there, it was his will,
But in my heart you're living still.
We hope to meet you little Beulah

Faye,
Up in your heavenly home,
When our work here on earth is over,
And the victory is won.

Written by her mother,
Carrie Delle Hopkins.

Brothers Meet After A Year In The Army

Pvt. Reuben "Sleepy" Harrison of 1911 King Street, Charleston, S. C., slept blissfully on the back of a troop-laden truck, as Co. A of the 47th Infantry started out on the current phase of the "Battle of the Carolinas."

One of his buddies shouted, "Harrison, wake up!"
Reuben slept on—but the driver, Pvt. Edward Harrison, stopped the truck and went to the rear to find what the shouting was about. The boys explained.

It turned out that the boys were brothers, and they had not seen each other since they entered the Army, more than a year ago.

Army Is Melting Pot Of The World

America has been called the melting pot of the world, and its Army is certainly no exception.

For instance, in the 36th Field Artillery, Pvt. Wong Sing, Canton-born selectee, works as a cook in Mess Sergeant Natwanakaska's kitchen.

The sergeant, whose native tongue is Shawnee, is a great grandson of Chief Sitting Bull. Pvt. Sing, whose principal associates have been Chinese during the eighteen years he has been in the United States, could speak only a limited amount of English when he entered the service in New York.

Sergeant Natwanakaska—who was an English elocution teacher before

Auto Industry May Not Reach Quota

The auto industry, bell-wether of defense production as well as peacetime leader, may not be able to reach its January quota, which called for a 51 per cent cut from last year, because of scarcity of strip steel. However, though it is nearing the peak of its "defense disemployment" so far as car-making is concerned, its terrific increase in assignments for turning out defense goods indicates that by the end of 1942 its total dollar volume and employment—in car-making and arms-making—may be at new all-time high levels. . . . Meanwhile OPM is speeding efforts to aid single-industry towns hurt by curtailment of such industries as refrigerators, washing machines, cooking utensils, Mantowoc, Wis., and Evansville, Ind., have been "certified" by OPM, which means recommending them to be entered the Army—is teaching Wong Sing to twist his tongue around some very fine English.

Army and Navy for extra consideration in placing defense orders. And other midwestern "washing machine towns" like Ripon, Wis., Sandusky, O., Algonquin, Ill., and Fairfield, Kellogg, Newton and Webster, all in Iowa, will be similarly cited soon.

The ships in Uncle Sam's Navy are completely outfitted with libraries which are supplied with books by the Bureau of Navigation. About 40 books are allotted quarterly to battleships, 30 to cruisers and lesser numbers to the smaller vessels.
