EXPLOSIVES CRIPPLE U-BOAT

A FULLY SURFACED U-BOAT provides a "sitting duck" target for the B-24 bomber which is surprising it while on sea patrol. In the top picture the plane, piloted by Capt. Lawrence Janagin, Jr., of Stamps, A.C., starts its run preparatory to dropping depth charges. Note the men on deck. In the middle photo the depth charges have exploded to envelop the sub (bottom photo) and sweep the men from the deck. The undersea craft was severely damaged, perhaps sunk. These pictures were passed by the War Department. (International)

Thurston F. Davenport, Jr., Writes from Pacific Area
In announcing his subscription to The Enterprise, Thurston F. Davenport, Jr., said:
"Would like to add that, although I'm in beautiful Hawaii, 'The Paradise of the Pacific,' it's very pleasant to get The Enterprise. It helps a great deal to keep up with the home news, and home news isn't really appreciated until you're away from home. So, thanks to The Enterprise.
"I'm glad to say that I'm getting along fine. Regards to all."
Along the shores of the Great Lakes and the Mississippi River, $765 million worth of sea-going vessels are being built for war services, a figure more than twice as great as was spent by the Navy in 1940 for all new naval construction.

Williamston Girl In Personality Parade

In its issue of September 4, "FBI This Week," inter-office publication of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, carries a column story about Miss Bernice Ward, Williamston girl, who entered the service over a year ago. Since it tells Miss Ward is a gifted dancer and artist, the story, by all means, should not get into the hands of Congressman Dies, the investigator who rules 'em out on that count, regardless of other qualifications or redeeming traits.
The story as it appeared in the publication:
Personality Parade: Introducing Bernice Ward from Williamston, North Carolina.
Bernice is gifted as a dancer and artist. At the age of six, she entered a Charleston contest and was awarded first prize—in competition with teen-age contestants.
A graduate of Williamston High School, she was an outstanding student and has many honors to her credit. A member of the National Honorary Beta Club, Bernice was secretary of this club in her senior year—and was given a pin denoting achievement for her scholastic record. Also active on the debating team, art editor of the school paper, historian of her senior class, Bernice found time to be center guard on the basketball team and won a letter for performance in athletics. Besides these honors, the title of "best all-around student in Home Economics" was bestowed upon her and she received a beautiful loving cup.
Upon graduation in 1938, Bernice took a special course in art and craft, but later gave it up to accept a position as Junior Recreational Supervisor for the playgrounds in the city parks of Williamston. Holding this position for two years, Bernice took a teaching job in a local kindergarten and after several months advanced to the office of the public library in her home town.

Desiring advancement toward a career, Bernice made application with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and was appointed in June of 1942. She was assigned to Caro Index and worked as a cabinet searcher, sequenced cards, and later made a special searcher. At the present time she is assigned to research posting.
Bernice enjoys all sports and likes to dance—thinks a good mystery book is tops, but likes to read any best-seller. She makes sketches as a hobby but wants to be a designer of clothes some day. At the present time, her thoughts and interests lie with a handsome Ensign in the Navy who has just returned from foreign service and is now stationed at Little Creek, Virginia. "I'm all-out for the Navy and Card Index," quotes Bernice M. Ward, we are calling you "Girl of Personality Parade This Week in Card Index."
