The Unexpected Has Happened

Secretary of State Cordell Hull addressed a joint meeting of the House and Senate recently and when he referred to Joseph Stalin as one of the greatest statesmen of the age...

Ten years ago when President Roosevelt recognized the Soviet Union, he was criticised and condemned. Since that time and up until the Moscow conference, so many "leaders" in and out of Congress have never failed to take a potshot at Russia.

But there are those who still see red when Russia is mentioned. And there are those who still think it more important to attack Roosevelt and his administration than it is to win this war and protect the rights of the common man.

Let Us Say "Thank You"

By Ruth Taylor.

Most of us were brought up in homes where the fine old custom of saying Grace prevailed and we learned to daily express our gratitude to the Giver of all Gifts.

Saying Grace is a custom that should be part of our lives today, for we have much for what to be thankful. Although the road is rough and the toll greater than we can yet conceive, we know that victory lies ahead.

What are we thankful for this Thanksgiving Day?

We are thankful that we have learned much in the two years since war came upon us. We have lost much, but we have learned what things are essential and what we can do without. External things can never again have as vital a meaning to us.

We are thankful that we have in the misery of these days learned that the ideals of which we boasted on holidays and at campaign times are living things for which we are willing to sacrifice.

We are thankful that we have learned how to spend less time thinking about what we want for ourselves, more time concentrating on our duties to others and more time enjoying those mercies we already possess.

We are thankful that we have learned how to cooperate with our neighbors and how to put aside old differences to work with our fellow men, finding in the stress of emergency that the divisions that divide us are less important than the things that we have in common and that unite us.

We are thankful that we have learned the inner satisfaction in work and sacrifice and in being on the side of justice and mercy.

We are thankful that we have learned the privilege of living in the greatest hour of history, that we can in that hour be of service to our brothers everywhere, whatever their class, creed or color.

As Chesterton so aptly said—"The way to love anything is to realize that it might be lost." We have learned what we really love—and for that knowledge while there is yet time to keep it, we are thankful.

Monarchy For Spain?

Christian Science Monitor.

Must it begin all over again? Tyranny in Spain, both civil and clerical, began with the monarchic system. The deepest excesses of dictatorship in the years before the Spanish Republic stemmed from the monarchy.

Now word comes from London that the monarchy may be restored with the blessing of the United Nations. Can we not see that monarchy, of itself, is only a tool? That the powers behind the throne literally are those which count?

The real awakening of the West to understand the nature of fascism began with the war in Spain. A restoration, now, would reverse the gains of the war at their very foundation.

"Til Then Chew Upon This"

With no desire to minimize the implications of the recent Republican landslides in certain un-named states, we should like to sound a note of caution to certain New Deal baiters who place the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt at the top of their list of enemies...

War And The Stock Market

In London as in New York, "as the war news improves the stock markets deteriorate." And both Wall Street and Downing Street can be wrong.—Springfield Republican.
