your unselfish devotion to duty as members of the 45th Division, you have brought this division to the glorious culmination of the first stage of its mission V. E. Day. Your individual contribution has been recognized by our government and now you will be relieved of further combat duty.

"The friendship, the loyalties and the deep sympathy which combat soldiers feel toward each other will not die with your departure. The 45th Division will always be the richer for having had you among its gallant men. I know I speak for every member of this command when I wish you good luck and extend to you a sincere salute for your division."

In a recent letter to his wife, Sgt. Martin stated, "After 450 days in combat on the front lines, I consider myself very lucky that I am here today in good health. It has been a hard time trying to get Eddie back to you in one piece. Now that the war is over, I feel that I have done my part and now I want more than anything else in the world to go home to my wife, family, and friends."
