Room For Improvement

North Carolina is rated a progressive state, but there is still much room for improvement. Last year, the per capita income in North Carolina was only $689, the figures being only 62 percent of the income received on an average in the nation. In 1929 the North Carolinians received, on an average, only $309, or about 45th of the average received by others.

In addition to ranking far below the average in income, North Carolina ranks 35th in public education, according to reliable reports based on the latest information.

It is admitted that there are some shiftless persons in North Carolina, but there ain't so many as to hold the income average to such a low figure or to make for such a bad showing in public education. There are, it must be admitted, other reasons, and if we want to head off the isms, those reasons must be recognized and corrected.

A Gentle Reminder

Building costs in World War I and its post-war inflationary period increased 218 percent. Two out of every three homes built during the period were, in due time, foreclosed.

Certain occasions, considered either collectively or individually and observed properly, tend to give the activity of man infinite scope; but mere merry-making or needless gift-giving is not that in which human capacities find the most appropriate and proper exercise.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The best thing to give to your enemy is forgiveness; to an opponent, tolerance; to a friend, your heart; to your child, a good example; to a father, deference; to your mother, conduct that will make her proud of you; to yourself respect; to all men, charity.—Balfour.

Falseness is in a hurry; it may be at any moment detected and punished; truth is calm, serene; its judgment is on high; its king cometh out of the chambers of eternity.—Joseph Park-er.

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.—James 1:17.

He who shall introduce into the public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world.—Benjamin Franklin.

Business is never so healthy as when like a chicken, it must do a certain amount of scratching for what it gets.—Henry Ford.

Christianity is not a theory or speculation, but a life; not a philosophy of life, but a life and having a living process.—Coleridge.

Delegation Seeks Loan For Russia

The CIO delegation, which recently visited the Soviet Union, will soon report on its observations and will emphasize the importance of substantial loans for economic reconstruction, it has been learned.

The report is expected to point out that large-scale business with Russia will create jobs for American business in the next crucial years.

The delegation stressed this point in an interview with Ambassador Averell Harriman. It is understood that when Harriman suggested Russia was not now in a position to export materials sufficient to pay off the American loans, the delegation pointed out that credits should be considered a long-range proposition, for thirty or fifty years.

Another feature of the report will be a recommendation that corresponding unions of the U. S. S. R. and the U. S. A. should exchange delegations. In the experience of the CIO delegation, an intimate contact with the Soviet trade union leaders cleared up misunderstanding and promoted a genuine sense of mutual interest.

Is it too cold to open the garage doors while you warm up the car on these winter mornings? Maybe it's chilly, but cold air is better than carbon monoxide, says the National Safety Council, pointing out that 196 persons met death from automobile exhaust gas in 1943.
