COMPLETE TESTS

Preliminary tests for widening the Roanoke River bridge here have been completed, and the contractors, Bowers Construction Company of Raleigh, moved its pile driver and other equipment used in making the tests back to Columbia to complete a road project there.

Piling have been ordered for the project here, but possibly it will be thirty or sixty days before material for the bridge is delivered. A right-of-way to be used while the main draw is being widened has been cut and a temporary bridge will be placed there. The detour leaves the concrete bridge a little over 100 feet from the farther end of the draw and re-enters the highway at a point where the road to the Standard Fertilizer Company runs into the highway.

Is Second County Man to Give Notice Of Candidacy Subject To May Primary

Sgt. C. B. Martin, Jamesville young man who eagerly anticipates his discharge from the Army in early April, this week announced his candidacy for a seat in the State House of Representatives from Martin County. A member of the armed forces for almost three years, the young man offered no platform when he announced his candidacy, but promised to state his policies in a formal release as soon as he received his discharge from the service or possibly before that time

Mr. Martin is the second man to toss his hat into the political ring subject to the wishes of the people n the May democratic primary. Attorney Hugh G. Horton, a few days ago, announced his candidacy for the State Senate from this district.

A native of Jamesville, Mr. Martin is the son of Mrs. Penny Outlaw Martin and the late Mr. R. O. Martin. He is a graduate of Wake Forest College and plans to return there this summer and complete his work on a master's degree. Following his graduation, he taught in the Bear Grass School one year, and went to he schools in his home town where he taught for two years. He then served as principal of the Farm Life School for four years, going to Pantego in 1940 where he served as principal until he entered the Army on May 28, 1943.
