

Fires Provide Odd Turns Of Events

Fire had provided both fateful and comic turns of events in two major American cities recently as Denver firemen in smoky confusion performed the same rescue mission in triplicate and the scheduled mortgage-burning of a Philadelphia Church was preceded by a fire in the church itself.

The Denver firemen were met at the scene of a ground-floor fire by a fireman who told them she was unable to locate the youngest of her three children in their second-floor apartment.

One fireman rushed to a bedroom in the apartment, grabbed a tiny figure from a crib and as he got clear the smoke and near a window, discovered it was a large doll. He tossed the doll on a bed and raced through the house in search of the missing youngster. On his heels came a second fireman, who, seeing the figure on the bed, snatched it up and ran for the window only to make the same discovery as his colleague. He made the same disposal of the doll.

Then came the chief himself for a check of the building. He saw the figure and went through the same routine, but with considerably more excitement, and a little light on the object in his arms brought the same embarrassment. The child, meanwhile, had been found playing at a neighbor's house.

In Philadelphia a recent fire in the Lindley Methodist Church had canceled a mortgage-burning ceremony planned for Palm Sunday. The fire broke out at midnight only a day after the church trustees had completed plans for the mortgage-burning ceremony. The blaze, which seriously damaged the structure, originated in the basement. The trustees were forced to call an immediate emergency meeting to make plans for holding future services pending repair of the structure.

Boy Scouts Report Their Activities

Troop 29 had eleven scouts present at its last meeting. It was a short and impromptu meeting. It was learned that about three scouts are planning to attend the scout camp at Fisher's Landing. It was brought out that at least ninety percent of the scouts, if not all, in Williamston are working somewhere this summer. This is a good record.

Here's news for the patrols of troop 29 that we did not know at our last meeting. The ribbons for the camporee at Wilson have arrived. They will be distributed as soon as possible.

Congratulations again to new Eagle Scout John Watts! He is the third "twenty-niner" to travel the "eagle trail."

What is Your Social Security ? 2. ?

How does the Social Security Act affect you and your family?

If you are eligible for its benefits, you and your wife will receive, under certain circumstances, a monthly income beginning at age 65. If you do not live to 65, your widow may receive a monthly income for herself, and for the children until they are eighteen. Do you know what these benefits are for you and your family?

To many families that want more... need more... than Social Security gives them, The Life Insurance Company of Virginia offers its new Family Security Plan. This plan provides a foolproof income that safeguards you and your family against losing your Social Security benefits.

Let us tell you more about this plan today.
