roads for six months. The road term was to be suspended upon the payment of a $100 fine and costs, but the defendant appealed and bond was required in the sum of $200.
Public Nelson, operating a car without burning its lights at night, was fined $10 and taxed with the costs.
Possessing no chauffeur's license while operating a transfer truck Ernest Walston was fined $20 and taxed with the costs.
The Martin County Health Department failed quite a few defendants into court for allegedly violating the health laws. Susie M. Hudson was fined $15, taxed with the cost and advised to comply with the law by taking prescribed treatment. Prayer for judgment was continued until the third Monday in December in the cases against Beatrice Wiggins, Bell Durham, Polly Macklin, and Elizabeth Smith. James Willis Lloyd was fined $25 and required to pay the costs, the court instructing the defendant to take prescribed treatments. Madeline Andrews was fined $20 and taxed with the cost. Unable to raise the fine and costs immediately, the defendant spent a short time in jail. Walter Brown, Jr., was fined $25 and taxed with the cost and instructed to take treatment. Fred Brown was sentenced to jail for a Wynne and George Beach each were fined $50 and taxed with the costs. Maurice Gardner, another defendant facing a similar charge, pleaded guilty and he was fined $35 and taxed with the costs. Pleading not guilty, Perlie Thomas, facing a gambling charge, was adjudged guilty and he was fined $50, the costs boosting the assessment to $75.30. Several witnesses stated that the defendant had not gambled, but another said the defendant had played one hand.

Urges The Public To Take It Easy

Caution on the part of both industry and consumers was urged as the key to prosperity in the decade ahead, in a statement made recently by Theodore S. Johnson, OPA District Director.
"Right now we're all facing the brightest 'green light' in the history of the nation," Johnson said. "Employment and production, even with work stoppages, are still at all-time highs.
"We have a tremendous pent-up demand for millions of articles, now beginning to reach the stores in greater numbers. This demand itself, if handled properly, can provide a sensible, stable period of prosperity for the entire nation," he explained.
"However, if we throw off all restraint with the ending of many controls, and allow our eagerness to buy to overshadow our reasoning and our natural caution, we could easily build up a tragic repetition of the depression we had before," Johnson said.
He declared that business men and consumers alike have the responsibility of seeing that America, fined $20, taxed with the cost and instructed to take treatments.
Charged with being drunk and disorderly and damaging personal property, Raymond T. Whitaker was fined $25 and taxed with the cost.
Judgment was suspended upon the payment of the cost and on condition that the defendant, Elmer Mizelle, charged with non-support, pay $5 a week for the support of his child.

GI Benefits Are Still In Effect

S/Sgt. Paul G. Manning of the Greenville Army Recruiting Station, today released the information that, contrary to popular belief, the educational benefits of the G. I. Bill of Rights did not terminate as of 6 October, 1946. "Many people are of the opinion," said Sgt. Manning, "that the benefits provided under the G. I. Bill of Rights terminated as of 6 October, 1946. This is not true."
"According to the Amended Servicemen's Readjustment Act," continued the sergeant, "any man who enlists or re-enlists in the Regular Army after 6 October 1946 and serves 90 days of that enlistment is entitled to one year of schooling, plus one month of schooling for each month of service completed prior to the date of the termination of the war."

"In view of these extended privileges and the opportunities available in our peace-time Army of today," continued Sgt. Manning, "it is expected that enlistments will continue at the high rate of 1224 men enlisted in the eastern section of North Carolina since September 1, 1946."

Ship Pens By Air To Karachi, India

Chicago.—World's record air shipment of $1,000,000 worth of ball pens left La Guardia Field recently in a specially chartered British Overseas Airways liner for Karachi, India.
Franklin Lamb, president of the Reynolds Pen Company, who made the announcement, said that this 100,000 pen cargo—a part of an order for 1,000,000 pens—was to be distributed in India in much the same fashion that the Reynolds Pens are distributed in the United States.
ca steers a stable economic course. If industry "jacks up" its prices unreasonably, then its customers can no longer buy, and a depression is in the making, he pointed out.

Dishes Done By Kitchen Magic

New-type electric appliances now available for commercial applications have eye-opener capacities.
There's an automatic dishwashing machine, for instance, that can handle 2,400 dishes an hour.
Also:
A glass washer that scrubs, rinses, sanitizes and dries eight glasses at once, 1,600 an hour.
A much smaller model that scrubs and polishes 800 glasses an hour.
An electric tenderizer that handles 500 to 600 pounds of meat an hour.
An automatic doughnut kettle that produces 85 dozen doughnuts an hour.

A fryer that yields 40 pounds of French fries an hour.
An automatic toaster that pops up 1,000 slices an hour.
New Yorkers use as much electricity as all of New England, and 73,000 miles of wire and cable are required to serve them.
