Former Local Girl Married in Chicago

Miss Glaria Gould Hayman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lapon Hayman of the Arlington Hotel at Nags Head, North Carolina, became the bride of Raymond Vincent Parent on Friday afternoon, October 10, in Chicago, Illinois. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Luther Parent of Niagara Falls, New York. The candlelight ceremony was performed by Dr. Dudley Scott Stark at St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church. Traditional wedding music was rendered by the church organist. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a period hoop-skirt gown of white satin, made on train, with a sheer marquisette yoke trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion fell from a coronet of stephanotis. She carried a white prayer book showered with a white orchid and streamers of white satin ribbon covered with stephanotis. Miss Natalie Gould of Washington, D. C., the bride's aunt, was her only attendant. She wore an off-the-shoulder dress of white taffeta with a peg-top skirt, and carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses. The groom had as his best man Harry Wade Martin of Chicago. Immediately after the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained the bridal party and the parents of the groom at a festive wedding dinner in the Empire Room of the Palmer House.

The young couple will reside at the Del Monte Hotel, 454 West Melrose Avenue, Chicago, where the groom is an advanced student in nuclear physics and television at the University of Chicago.
