The Palestine Problem

The Palestine problem has worked itself up to a climax. Minor issues such as boundaries for the partitioning plan were fixed and other details handled, looking to an ultimate solution of a problem as that problem presented itself to world peace.

Now at the climax comes a decision to be made either for oil investments and against human lives, or for human lives and against oil investments.

The Arabian-American Oil Company plans to spend more than a half a billion in the next five years on a pipe line and to develop a vast oil field in Arabia. The Arabs, dead set against partitioning Palestine, are perched in a strategic position to threaten the oil program. Now, the oil folks are high-pressuring the administration in this country and plaguing the United Nations in an effort to have them forget the partition program in favor of the oil program.

It seems that the oil people have the friendship of one Ibn Saud who, so far, has been able to counteract the opposition. But the cost of the bribes is going up, unofficial reports hinting that railroads have been built across deserts for the king and at American taxpayers' expense. Should Ibn Saud fail to protect the oil company's investment, will it be necessary to send American young men there to protest it. The Navy recently announced that the aircraft carrier Valley Forge and two escorting destroyers are visiting Saudi Arabia this month on a "good will" cruise.

The oil supply may be short and this country may need more oil from Saudi Arabia, but if it means war to get the oil, we'd be better off to park our cars and start walking from now.

And to aggravate the seriousness of the deal, it has been ruled that American investors are not subject to taxes on their operations over there.

The Ambrose Case

"I am sorry to learn that such conditions can be found in this county," Miss Annie Glasgow of Jamesville commented in submitting a contribution to the Ammie Ambrose fund.

The Ambrose case along with the one where a father could not finance the burial of his small baby should convince society that all has not been well with everybody during the boom years. The case should stir leaders to action. It is fairly apparent that if such conditions can exist in a time of plenty that society will be bogged down in time of adversity. It is mighty late now, but not too late to take action to successfully meet future problems.

It is indeed heartening to observe the response made to the appeal advanced in the name of an aged colored woman and the other members of her family. As long as that spirit of helpfulness exists, any challenge can be accepted. But we must, in some way, maintain that spirit, for it is indeed possible that organized and tax-supported agencies cannot cope with an aggravated condition.

Who Got the Money?

It has been estimated that increased costs of food robbed the American consumer of thirty-five billion dollars since the OPA was killed by that unholy alliance in Washington.

Well, who got the money? Commodity prices on the farm possibly moved up a bit, but farmers shared to a very small extent in the fabulous increase. Somewhere along the line somebody who had nothing to do with production and who contributed nothing tangible to the deal, played the market for all it was worth, running up prices and sidetracking profits from the actual producers and increasing costs to the consumers, and reaping fabulous fortunes for themselves.

The Letter-Box

To the Editor,
Straight and true
The purple snafw flew.
And, as usual, it landed in the teachers, collectively. Someone must congratulate the Martin County Board of Education on its brilliant decision to have school on Saturdays. Despite numerous other possibilities, they nobly chose to ignore them all and chose the one outlet that will inconvenience teachers and others the most.

It is distressing to note that along with other responsibilities teachers (the school) are now responsible for the weather. Since time immemorial the weather has been left in the capable hands of God—now we are duty bound to make up for school days lost due to inclement weather. Agreed that it should be made up, aren't there less painful ways? Lengthen the school days, the school year, to mention two.

On our present salary schedules, we could, no doubt extend our services to other public areas. Any day the legislature will require teachers to baby sit at nights then the modern parents will be entirely freed of their responsibility of rearing their children! Sensitive persons hate to revert to cynicism, but is it any wonder that teachers as a group aren't the most cynical people in the world? Unduly frustrated in their attempts to lead satisfactory personal lives, their professional careers are hampered by short-sighted public officials.

There goes the bell for the first round; thank heavens for freedom of the press anyway.

A little care saves a lot of wear!

A Spring change from contaminated, old winter oil to Nth Motor Oil protects from grit and dust that can ruin the inside as well as the outside finish of your car!

Conoco Nth Motor Oil (Patented) contains a special added ingredient that fastens an extra film of lubricant so closely to metal that metal surfaces are OIL-PLATED!

This OIL-PLATING stays up on cylinder walls while you're running hot and when you're not... won't all drain down into the crankcase even overnight! That's why Nth Oil extra-protects from "dry-friction" starts from sludge and carbon, caused by wear.
