

Report Dangerous Developments In German Territory

Some Observers Believe Way Is Being Opened for World War III

Washington, D. C.—Big business men and bankers in the American Military government in Germany are opening the way for a Third World War, by blocking the breaking up of German "trusts" and "international cartels," which put Hitler in power and built up his military machine for the Second World War.

That sums up an extraordinarily important report, made public this week by a three-man commission which was sent to Germany late last year to see how the military government headed by General Lucius D. Clay is carrying out orders issued by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, to end the trusts and cartels.

The sending of the commission was a result of charges and demands made by Senator Harley M. Kilgore (Dem., W. Va.) The commission was headed by ative Republican member of the Federal Trade Commission. The other two members were Samuel S. Isseks, a Department of Justice anti-trust attorney, and A. T. Kearney, a Chicago business man.

They found that, despite the orders, the American "decartelization" officials have not smashed a single one of Germany's giant monopolies, and have left the door open for American Big Business men and bankers to resume their old cartel ties with the German magnates who used the Nazis to crush labor unions, and to carry out their schemes for world conquest in the Second World War.

The report names a number of American officials in Germany in distributing the blame, but puts most of it on General Clay's two "economic advisers."

The first one was General William H. Draper, who came from the Wall Street banking firm of Dillon, Read, which played a big part in financing the industrialists back of Hitler.

Draper afterward became Under secretary of the Army, and went to Japan, where he fixed things up for Jap and American monopolists as he had done in Germany.

Draper's place as Clay's adviser was taken by Lawrence Wilkinson. He was one of the American business men and bankers who put on an army colonel's uniform during the war, and then bobbed up in "strategic" places in the organization supposed to "decartelize" Germany. Incidentally, Wilkinson's chief assistant, a man named Hawkins, is a son-in-law of Draper.

The American people would be shocked by hundreds of statements in the report, but only one can be presented in the space available here. This one was made by Isseks.

He cited remarks and letters of top American military government officials in Germany—before last year's election—saying the trust and cartel-busting program should not be pushed, because the administration in Washington would change after November 1948, and there would be a change in "policy."

In other words, men like Draper and Wilkinson had reason to believe a Republican President, Dewey, would reverse the Roosevelt-Truman policy and five free rein to the German and American monopolists and international cartels.

Better Chicken Breed Is Sought

A new Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest is now under way in North Carolina. C. J. Maupin, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service, announced today. "Goal of the new three-year program," Maupin said, "is a 1951-model chicken patterned along the lines of progress made in the initial Chicken-of-Tomorrow breeding contest. An attempt will be made to develop a new bird—or improve some of the established strains—that will grow faster and have beefier drumsticks and more white meat."

State contests are being held all over the nation this year and will be followed by regional contests in 1950 and another national contest in 1951. The A and P Food Stores are offering $10,000 in prize money during this period.

"In many respects, the Chicken-of-Tomorrow is here today," Maupin said. "The first national contest, won by a California hatchery with a Cornish-New Hampshire cross, demonstrated that many meat-type birds are being produced all over the nation. The main purpose of the new contest is to improve, spread, and expand the production of better-type meat birds, so that more and more superior chickens will soon be reaching American dinner tables."

Poultry industry members who have been asked to serve on the North Carolina committee with Maupin are L. J. Fourie and Charles G. Fox of Raleigh, H. B. Helms and Bundy F. Belk of Monroe, W. W. Keever of Lincolnton, J. B. Wood of Siler City, H. C.

Kennett of Durham, Harry Hettiger of Wilkesboro, and R. S. Dearstynne and C. F. Parrish of State College.

The 1949 contest will end during the week June 20-25. Announcement will be made as to names of judges and the dressing plant where a 15-bird sample from each entry will be dressed.

A father was buying a fountain pen for his son's graduation gift. "It's supposed to be a surprise, I imagine," said the clerk. "I'll say it is," said the father. "He's expecting a convertible coupe."

The 1949 Richmond County peach crop is expected to be about 60 to 75 percent of normal.
