

Justice Johnson Hears Six Cases In Recent Days

(Continued from page one) ing for the justice of the peace to pass on the case, several of the defendants engaged in an affray. The charges were scheduled for an airing Monday evening, but during the meantime, warrants charging assaults were issued.

Charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, Ruby L. Melton was bound over to the county court for trial. Bond was required in the sum of $100.

In Justice John L. Hassell's court, three cases were handled. David Bryant and Frank Williams, charged with being drunk and an affray, were sentenced to the roads for thirty days. The justice suspended the sentence upon good behavior for one year and the payment of $8.50 costs each.

The case charging Mrs. Bryant Reason of Jamesville with attacking Mrs. Herbert Williams with a stick, was sent to the county court for trial on June 27.

Sam Best, hitch hiking his way from Florida to Baltimore, passed out on the river bridge day before yesterday and was jailed for an over-night stay. Carried before Justice Hassell, the 64-year-old and penniless man, was sentenced to the roads for thirty days. The sentence was suspended on condition that the defendant clear out of town in ten minutes.

Few Cases Listed For Trial Monday In Superior Court

Octavius Roberson is charged with the larceny of a truck from Mannings' truck line here, and O. K. Harrison is booked for allegedly abandoning a crop.

Justice Johnson is up for trial for allegedly issuing a worthless check in the sum of $327.56 to J. T. Dawson last September 17. Willie Moore is charged with an assault with a deadly weapon, and Geo. Mobley is booked for trial on two embezzlement charges. H. C. Miller and J. R. Parrisher are the two main prosecuting witnesses in the cases against the defendant.

Fourteen Cases In County Court Monday Morning

(Continued from page one) quote support for his child. He was sentenced to the roads for six months, the court suspending the road term upon the payment of the costs and the guaranteed payment of $15 a month for the support of the child.

William Madrey pleading guilty of speeding, was fined $15 plus costs. Pleading guilty of operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license, Dorothy Rectanus was fined $25 and taxed with the costs.

Morris Laney Funderburk was fined $15 and required to pay the costs for speeding. The court will hold its next session on June 27, yielding its time next week to the superior tribunal.

(Continued from page one) Biggs Funeral Home here early last night and prepared for burial. The body, after lying in state at the late home here, is being removed this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock to Hunt's Funeral Home, Wilson, where services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. Burial will be in Wilson's Maplewood Cemetery. Rev. Clyde E. Barcom, Wilson Baptist minister, assisted by Rev. Stewart B. Simms, pastor of the Memorial Baptist Church here, will conduct the rites.

Displaced Persons Coming to Farms

Location of displaced persons from Europe is tending more and more toward rural areas and inland cities in this country. Government and voluntary agencies that have aided 25,000 persons uprooted by World War II to resettle in this country since last October report that the refugee families and individuals are being integrated into farm communities and small industrial towns, with few exceptions, as successfully as

BABY MAY HALT DEPORTATION

LITTLE JOHN MANNYNALI, two months old, has made it possible for his mother and father, Erkki and Ella, to remain in the U. S. The youngster, shown with his parents in Miami, was born in the Virgin Islands while en route from Finland with a group of refugees aboard a small vessel. Since the baby was born in a U. S. possession and is automatically a citizen, the parents cannot be deported if they insist on staying with him. Immigration spokesmen said six others aboard the boat, reportedly fleeing Red domination, would be excluded. (International Soundphoto)

At Charity Auction Warns Against Old War Shells

Early this year, five persons were killed and two injured by the explosion of a shell, which was removed from a former Army installation for the purpose of sale to a scrap dealer. Recently six unexploded projectiles were located in a scrap yard in the Third Army Area.

Several instances have been reported within the Third Army Area recently where individuals have trespassed onto inactive artillery impact areas, and have picked up such unexploded projectiles or "duds" and have sold them to scrap iron and metal dealers. The public is warned of the inherent dangers of removing unexploded projectiles from impact areas and that it is illegal for anyone to trespass on these areas. It is also unlawful to purchase or sell material removed from impact areas without proper authority and inspection.

Closer home, a young Williamston lad had been playing with a live shell for some weeks before an old artilleryman happened to see it. He explained the danger, and the lad, shaking a bit, turned it over to the veteran who pulled the cap and buried the shell.

they have made themselves part of the life of great cities." One-quarter of the individuals entering the United States as displaced persons have stayed in New York City. "But the percentage is shrinking with each shipload," the story added. Reasons suggested for the trend toward rural areas were as follows: "Community programs for finding employment and housing assurances, which were slower getting started in many parts of the nation that lacked New York's tradition and facilities for absorbing immigration, are hitting their stride now and accounting for a wider dispersal of new arrivals."
