Stop Crime

Skyland Post

According to the Uniform Crime Reports for the United States and Its Possessions, issued by J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, crime increased across the nation 2.7 percent in cities and .6 percent in rural areas, during the first half of 1949 as compared with the same period of the previous year.

Murders and negligent manslaughters, respectively, were down 6.6 and 15.5 percent in the cities as compared with a 7.1 percent murder decline and a 4.9 percent decrease in negligent manslaughters in rural areas. Auto thefts decreased 3.7 percent in rural places. Burglaries, larcenies, aggravated assaults, robberies and rape all increased over the same period of the previous year.

These figures are a challenge. Every thinking citizen should consider his or her responsibility in helping to cut down crime. Let's not think that the whole burden lies with the law. The law curtails crime, catches criminals, punishes them when they are convicted but public sentiment can do much about the prevention.

Parents, teachers and all other adults who exert any influence can be a power for the prevention of crime before its inception.

What Real Public Housing Means

Labor.

Peter Bregante, a 35-year-old truck driver, took a day off from his job yesterday and used it to move his wife, Rose Marie, and their two children from their cramped, ill-lighted living quarters to a modern five-room apartment in the new Alfred E. Smith Houses on the Lower East Side.

That's from the New York "Times." Who do you think built the Alfred E. Smith Houses on the Lower East Side? The New York City Housing Authority. That means the people of New York borrowed the money, cleared a 21-acre slum area, and proceeded to build modern houses for poor people.

The Bregantes get a five-room apartment for $41.50 a month, including gas, electricity, and heating. Endeavor to match that in your home town.

Is this socialism? No one in New York City has dared to apply that name to it. Why, even Governor Dewey and John Foster Dulles, who have been orating against the "Welfare State," pushed their way up front so they could be "in on the deal."

A Bargain
"I say, you gave that cloak room attendant an enormous tip," said the business man to his friend as they left the restaurant.
"Naturally," said the friend, "look at the splendid coat he's given me!"

Put It In The Budget

If education ever grows up it will provide in its budget for those little things interested patrons and children have to go out and beg for in the streets and shops.

It never did seem quite right to build a schoolhouse and then tell the patrons that they would have to get out and scratch for a curtain or for material to equip a laboratory, playground or provide essentials that should be financed right along with other items in the budget.

There are more ways for patrons to show an interest in their school than by going around begging. Yet, our modern educational system almost demands such practices. Necessary standards should be established and financed as budgetary items. If a school community demands more, then let the demands be included in the list for which appropriations are made.

Can't Afford To Quit

Even the conscientious giver grows weary of charity demands, but as long as there are those who suffer and those who are able, charity must go on.

If we would fume and fret because we are asked to give, just consider how much better it is to give than to face life at the mercy of poverty and want.

So, as long as we have a plentiful supply of corn, we should consider it a privilege to contribute a bushel or several bushels to the Friendship Train operating in this county within the near future.

We have gone along for some time; we can't afford to quit now. Join the leaders and let's all have a part in packing 45,000 pounds of corn in a boxcar in this county. We'll all feel better in the knowledge that our gift helped fill a car, than if we hesitate and see an empty "mercy" car leave our county.
