

Twenty-five Cases Slated For Trial In Superior Court

are charged with trying to victimize Goldie Hyman in the old film-film game. Unable to arrange $200 bonds, both men have been in jail since May 19.

Clarence Wiggins is charged with breaking into the home of Andrew Wiggins last Sunday night.

The following five cases are booked for trial on Tuesday, June 20:

Adjudged guilty of setting woods on fire on the lands of O. P. Roberson and R. B. Nelson on April 19, Murray Boyd appealed from the county court judgment, and is now at liberty under $250 bond.

Charged with assaulting William Williams with a deadly weapon, Dave Melton had his case booked in the "big" court when he appealed from a judgment in the county court. Bond was arranged in the sum of $500.

Robert Jasper Rogers is charged with non-support. Appealing from a lower court judgment, Rogers did not report for trial last March after the case was continued at the December term.

The case charging John E. Walker with passing a worthless check was continued last term under prayer for judgment.

In addition to the Early murder trial, one other case is on the docket for Wednesday, William Quincy James is charged with drunken driving as of last November 1. He appealed from the lower court judgment and the case was continued last March.

before Mr. Butler who directed them in playing the national anthem.

One of the most impressive of the several maneuvers was the rapid way in which the band increased and decreased front, apparently with perfect co-ordination.

The band leaves for Charlotte at 8:00 o'clock Sunday morning, will spend the night in Davidson, go Charlotte for the parade Monday, spend Monday night in Davidson, returning to Williamston Tuesday.

Travel will be by two chartered busses and several private cars.

Phony Race Issue Rejected By The Voters In State was raised by Graham's opponents simply as a ruse to get votes, and not because this State is facing any crisis in its race relations.

"This is doing a great disservice to our State," he commented, "and I am sure all thinking people join me in resenting it."

Robert Jasper Rogers is charged with non-support. Appealing from a lower court judgment, Rogers did not report for trial last March after the case was continued at the December term.

Friendly enemies! Much to the disgust of Ann Sheridan, Cary Grant displays a tell-tale pair of nylons in this scene from "I Was a Male War Bride," the hilarious Twentieth Century-Fox comedy at the Marco Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. It was the beginning of a frenzied romance that took the pair across occupied Germany and back, where the picture was filmed by Director Howard Hawks.
