Pack A Picnic!

Who can really blame the small boy who plays hooky to go fishing—especially if the day is balmy with clear skies, singing birds and hopping robins just begging to help with the digging of wiggle worms? What adult can resist the temptation to pack a lunch and head for the mountains, seashore, or nearest picnic ground? Of course, a picnic should be care-free and happy even for the one who prepares the food—so keep it simple and easy to fix.

For a successful picnic, plan it on paper first. You'll find it saves time, work and forgotten items!

Good drinking water is essential and may, or may not be available. Since only safe-water should be used, plan to carry your drinking water unless you are certain of the supply. If you are the type to really love picnicking, a thermos container is an excellent investment. It can also be used for such thirst quenchers as tomato, grapefruit, orange, pineapple juice, lemonade, limeade, iced tea, coffee or milk. By thoroughly chilling these beverages and adding a few ice cubes, any one can have a long cool, refreshing drink whenever desired. Hot drinks can also be handled in the thermos container.

Don't forget plenty of paper cups and for the food, provide paper plates, and napkins. Even a roll of paper towels is most welcomed on a picnic. A paper cloth can be used by those who feel that certain formalities must be observed.

If sandwiches are to be made before the picnic, plan some that will keep well without becoming soggy. Easy to fix and easy to eat are hard cooked eggs, or deviled eggs! For a spontaneous and quick picnic, pick from your pantry shelf fruit butters, jams, jellies, salmon, liver pastes, baked beans, or an assortment of cheese. Don't limit your breads—there are so many kinds available, such as pumpernickle, whole wheat, rye, Boston Brown, etc.

A salad could be prepared of fresh vegetables or fruit. Remember to chill the vegetables or fruit and the container. Let stand in a cold place for an hour after mixing with the dressing. Wrap the container in several layers of newspaper, tying it tightly. This will keep well for several hours. Do have pickles and plenty of them! Have the big fragrant dill, small sweet gherkin, sliced cucumber, or branched peaches.

Sponge cake, layer cake, tarts, small iced cakes, or fresh fruit are always popular for dessert.

SHOES

At least until the courts have had more time to harden, officials in charge of the newly constructed asphalt tennis courts at the high school are requesting that all persons refrain from walking or playing on the courts with any type of shoes other than tennis shoes. Street shoes or basketball shoes that have a sharp edge will mar the surface of the courts and in time could render them almost useless it was pointed out.

Tennis shoes are available at several local stores at reasonable prices and will not only help protect the courts but add to the enjoyment of the game.

Don't forget the salt and pepper. Here's a hint you'll be glad of to prevent spilling; place pieces of tightly folded waxed paper inside tops of salt and pepper and screw on tops.

Regardless of where or when your picnic—have fun!

How mild can a cigarette be?

MORE PEOPLE SMOKE CAMELS than any other cigarette!

Popular sportscaster says: "My voice gets a workout for hours at a stretch. It's a mild Camel for me! They agree with my throat!"

WILLIS SMITH

Is A
Veteran's Veteran

Long about this time in 1918, Willis Smith turned down a Major's commission in the Army's office of the Judge Advocate General to enlist as a private.

The fellow who preferred to be one of the boys in the ranks served honorably and well, returning home in 1919 to become a charter member of the Raleigh Post No. 1 of the American Legion, and is a member of 40 & B.

He served the North Carolina Department of the American Legion as Child Welfare Chairman in 1930-32, concentrating his efforts to assist the disabled veterans their wives and children at the mammoth tubercular hospital at Oteen in Buncombe County.

All three of Willis Smith's sons served in the Navy in World War II.

Consistently a supporter of equitable veterans' legislation, Willis Smith knows the problems and needs of veterans and they can depend upon him for complete fairness.

A Vote for Willis Smith Is:

1. A Vote Against Socialism.
2. A Vote For Americanism.
3. A Vote For Adequate Defense.
