Dangerous

If a monster devours, the devoured cannot be too particular about just what type of monster did the devouring. He is more interested in his fate than he is in the de-

We have been warned against this and that, rightly so, no doubt. But it would seem that some of those doing the warning are about to turn and devour us, not the uppercrust, to be sure, but the masses.

It seems that a guy by the name of Edward Rumely is furnishing the brains for an organization called the Committee for Constitutional Government. It also seems that he served in prison for his close work with the Nazi outfit in this country. Rumely was questioned recently about large contributions received by his lily-white organization. He claims no contributions amounted to $500 or more, but there is the charge that one pharmaceutical house chipped in $1,000.

It seems as if the Rumely outfit is out to influence legislation and elections, not in the interest of good government, but in the interest of 166 corporations and the contemptible reactionaries.

We sincerely belive that the Rumely and the Gannetts and others of their ilk are more dangerous to the welfare of our country than any other one group in the nation today. They have already left a dirty trail from Georgia through North Carolina, and they are not vet satisfied. They are a dangerous group. They are trying to block congressional investigations when those investigations point to their contemptible acts. They are pumping money into States to influence elections, and they are pumping money into legislative halls to influence legislation-all for their own gain.

They talk about the good of the country when all they do and hope to do is for their

Who said the world was going to the dogs? the headlines may be full of misery and mendacity. Professors may worry and politicians stew. But one solid citizen is convinced that progress hasn't ceased. We speak of the common garden variety of home gar-

Not only do the plant hybridizers give him bigger and better varieties of flowers and vegetables every year. Not only do tool manufacturers turn out every conceivable kind of gadget to lighten his labors. even to one with which he can practice golf strokes and cut weeds at the same time. Not only do chemists combine fertilizers with weed killers, and even concoct solutions that can distinguish between weeds and grass, and powders that harm insects but not humans. Now they have come up with an invention to eliminate the lawn-mowing chore. (We call it "chore" although some enthusiasts claim there is no pleasanter way of getting in a good walk.)

Researchers down at the University of North Carolina should find a happier name for their beneficent discovery than "maleic hydrazide," They warn against extravagant hopes and say that their wonder is not vet ready for use by the public. But experiments have shown that one spraying in spring stopped grass growth for four months. It is also said to do various weeding jobs and hold back fruit buds till frost is past. But the 22,222,222 men who shave and manicure surburban greensward every week will forgive it for failure in any of these other tasks

if only it retires the lawn mower. Even then your real gardner will expect more progress. He probably will ask the inventors to find something for that fellow next door who lets his dandelions go to seed.

If you would measure the real calibre of a man, note the size of the things that make him mad.—Exchange

Trinity of Beauty

Design, material and craftsmanship are the three things which insure brautiful and permanent memorials.
