

SIXTY SIGE
— he wants ter know.

If you ever heered their story bout ther stranger that drivd thro a strange county, thinkin bout his pocket bein nigh-on to emptiness, and him a fur ways from home? And how his brain figgered 'im out a way to ad little-bit to ther little-bit he had left?

Well, hit was en-durin ther days when ther farmers didn't know ther rael value of cotton-seeds fer fertilize, much less what they air with now fer makin margarine-butter. They thort cotton-seeds was good fer nuthin but fillin gullies to stop land-washes. Ther broke travler must a bin a little ber-head of his day, or wuldnt a knowd how to back-up his skeem to bolster-up his pocket. As he driv-erlong he cum to a big cotton-farm with a cotton-gin-house ni-by ther road, and thar was a big pile of cotton-seeds thowd out on ther open yard jest lak briars cut from a ditch-bank. Ther farmers livin-hous was way-of yander in a grove of trees. He driv-up to ther gin-hous and look erround twell he found a empty toe-sack. Then he went to ther seed-pile and scratched away ther outsiders, twell he cum to ther good ones, and filled his sack chock-er-block. Then he put it on ther back of his buggy and driv up to ther farmers house and knocked on ther door. Ther farmer cum out, shuck hands with 'im and said—I was jest a-settin down to brekfaf, wont yer cum-in and pertake with me? Ther stranger thanked 'im with a Yas-Sir, and endurin ther meal said—My bizn's to see yer is to sell yer sum cotton-seeds that'll make ther biggest crap you ever seed—pervided you treats 'em lak I kin tell yer how. How much cotton you bin makin avrage to ther acre? Oh, bout half-a-bale all round—sais ther farmer. Ther travler said—Well, I got one bag of seeds that'll pian yer 3-4 acres thin, and ther price is 25$, and thay'l make yer make one or more 500 pound bales to ther acre, ef you'll jest haul-out yer horse-stable this fall and spread it thick on yer ditch banks; then spread them rottin cotton-seeds, I seed over yander, thick on top ther horse-stable; plow it up, and nest spring drill it down yer cotton-rows, with bout 2-3 hundred pounds of hi-grade phosphate to ther acre; plant these-here seeds, and cultervate ther crap clean after evy rain. Then next year you hav all ther hi-grade seeds you needs to plant yer whole farm. Yas-Sir, ther trade was made. And ther next fall, ther stranger had ther faith (or ther gall) to write that farmer and ast fer re-sults. And ther farmer writ-im back—that he had dun made plans to put his son on ther road a-sellin "Bale-or-Better" cotton-seeds to all his nabers and beryond. Then ther stranger writ ther farmer—I sho am glad your son is a-goin to take-up whar I left off—but dont fergit to tel'im to put forth strong on How to Fertilize and How-to-Cultervate.

When an Hour means Forever!

Well, here you are—your hand on the beautiful steering wheel, the tip of your toe on the sensitive throttle, your thoughts on your favorite highway.

You're going to find out—for yourself—whether all these wonderful things you've been hearing are true.

A flick of the finger, and the great Hydramatic Drive is set for action. A touch to the throttle, and the power of the dynamic engine goes to the rear wheels. Softly, quietly—and, oh, so smoothly—you roll out into the street.

What's this? A "Stop" sign! You take your toe off the throttle and put it on the brake—and you settle down to the softest, most reassuring stop you ever experienced in all your life. Say, it's fun even to put on the brakes!

You look to the right and you look to the left. The crossing is clear—and you touch the throttle.

You can tell you're going places—for the back of the seat comes up to press against your shoulders. But it's all so easy! From settled stop to driving speed is one continuous sweep—as if by automatic propulsion. What an experience!

Again and again, the big brakes bring you to a velvet stop. Again and again, the great engine sweeps you into action with one continuous movement. Again and again, a rough stretch of road rolls under the wheels and leaves you wondering what happened to it.

Yes, it's true! This wonderful car's performance is equal to its prestige. You want it as much for what it does—as for the magic name it bears.

Come in and see for yourself. But it's only fair to warn you: Sit for an hour at its beautiful wheel, and you'll want this car forever!
